SUMMARY.

Mr. Percival Phillips telegraphs that it is clear, spring-like weather on the Western front. The ground is drying steadily.

The ostentatious German idleness is intended to deceive us, he says, but storm troops are seen rehearsing open warfare.

It is impossible to conceal the steady stream of fresh divisions and concentrations of artillery, Mr. Phillips adds.

There have been reconnoitring raids by both the French and the Germans.

The French made successful raids on the outskirts of Bouconville, north of the Ailette, and also in the Woevre.

The German attempts between Bezonvaux and Bois-des-Fosses, as well as in the Champagne, failed.

The French stopped an attempted coup-de-main in the Juvincourt region.

The Germans, after a furious bombardment, attacked in front of Caurieres Wood, but were repulsed.

A French communique reports that artillery fire is most active in Alsace.

Two Australians who arrived in London, after escaping from Germany, had many thrilling experiences.

Many of those in camp knew of their intention to escape, but guarded the secret carefully.

Travelling was difficult, but various devices allayed suspicion. One Australian disguised as a Belgian workman.

Forecast.—Chiefly fine in western districts, and cooler generally, but cloudy and unsettled over the eastern half of the State, rain chiefly confined to the coastal and highland districts.

Squally and strong south-east winds, reaching gale force at places; moderate to rough seas.

THE ECONOMY OF LOW PRICE.
A low-priced article is frequently more expensive than that for which more money is paid. The price is not the infallible guide to value, which, after all is said and done, is the main factor of economy.
If a man feels bound to observe rigid economy in his dressing he should pay so much as will ensure that his clothes not only look and fit well, but are tailored from dependable fabrics, with a scrupulous regard for the service they will be called on to give in wear.
Just so much a man is asked to pay for an Austral Suit to measure—and he need pay no more.
"AUSTRAL" SAC SUITS TO MEASURE, 75/, 85/. Other prices, 95/, 105/, 115/, 126/, 147/, 157/6.
Country Men, or those who live at a distance from town, may have patterns and measurement forms sent post free to any address on request. Carriage is paid on all Country Orders.

IT'S SALE TIME WITH US!

which is the same as saying: It's gift time for our customers. Our regular patrons have many a pleasant recollection of profitable rambles through the House when the SALE signals are flying. The present season is no exception to the rule—in fact, if anything, the BARGAINS are emphasised owing to the abnormal cost of wearing apparel and every other article of domestic and personal use. The very noticeable reductions in prices are, therefore, all the more attractive on this occasion. But, after all, it's the "ad. man's" job to say this. It's far better for the public to come and satisfy themselves whether the writer is a descendant of Ananias or whether "the truth is in him." We confidently leave the verdict to your judgment and discrimination, Ladies.
NOTE: You will find all these goods in our FURNITURE BUILDING, 327 George-street, opp. tramway waiting-room.

SNOW'S

AND CONCERNING "X." A NEW COMPLAINT.

The letter "X" is a temporary name given by the medical profession to a new disease, closely resembling cerebro-spinal meningitis, discovered in north-west New South Wales.
Is it fair to burden the letter "X" in this way? In Mathematics, of course, "X" equals the unknown quantity; but in the popular mind "X" equals a policeman—Constable X.
"X" also equals several things at Snow's—not the unknown, but the well-known, such for example as—

FARMER'S,

SYDNEY, 1840-1918, Seventy-eight years.

THE NEW MODELS OF LACE-IN-FRONT "GOSSARD" CORSETS,

WORTH SEEING TO-DAY

IN FARMER'S PITT-ST WINDOWS.

Your Corset is bought not just for a day—but to remain a part of yourself for many months. It is the foundation upon which your gowns are modelled throughout the season. Perfectly fitting corsets mean beautifully becoming gowns. It is worth while then, to pay the price of the best corsets you can procure. To purchase an inferior make of corset, is almost an insult to your own personality.
The "Gossard" stands supreme among corsets; and for 1918 it has excelled even its former admirable self. The "Gossard" is of scientific construction—laces in front, because its makers discovered that thereby you derive the maximum of comfort and support.
You can move with ease. You can bend, walk, dance, with double-fold grace in a "Gossard." Your gowns achieve distinction in style. You must certainly inspect these new arrivals. Some prices:—

YOU CAN GET UNDER THE TABLE IN A WARNER'S CORSET.

After an hour's cogitation on what would constitute the very apex of flexibility and comfort in Corset wear, our thoughts crystallise upon that expression.

THINK WHAT IT MEANS TO THE HOUSE MOTHER.

In these days of stress and struggle the woman who doesn't "do her own work" is in an ever-lessening minority.

And how a tight or ill-fitting or badly-designed Corset adds to the worry and discomfort of housework—how it makes every stooping a nuisance, every bending a torment, and every kneeling a purgatory.

But YOU CAN GET UNDER THE TABLE IN A

WARNER'S RUSTPROOF CORSET,

and do it without a sigh or a complaint, without a pinch or a gasp for breath.

BECAUSE "WARNER'S"

are designed on natural lines to fit the natural figure.

They are constructed to support the form and protect the softer muscles in every movement—not to nip and squeeze and keep you wriggling uncomfortably over every turn or twist your work entails upon you.

THAT'S WHY.

AND WHEN YOUR WORK IS DONE, whatever it may have been, if your corset shows the least mark of perspiration or soil of any kind,
TAKE IT INTO THE BATH WITH YOU, give it the hardest sort of scrubbing or the lightest rinsing it needs, and it comes out bright as the morning, for and the tub has no more terrors for a Warner than it has for the human skin.

WARNER'S ARE REALLY RUSTPROOF CORSETS,

YES, WARNER'S ARE THE HOUSEHOLD CORSET. Come in and see the New Models.

WE PAY CARRIAGE ALL OVER AUSTRALIA.

BEAUTY'S FAVOURITE.

The article which excels all others in improving the beauty of the skin is naturally and deservedly beauty's favourite. This has been the acknowledged and honoured position held by PEARS' SOAP for nearly 120 years. It won and has maintained that position by virtue of its complete purity, and by the possession of those special emollient properties which soften, refine, and impart natural colour to the skin. ## LAW REPORT.

IN CHAMBERS.

(Before Mr. Justice Street.)

EX PARTE JOHN MEAGHER AND CO., LTD.

Recently John Meagher and Co., Ltd., in Chambers obtained a rule nisi for prohibition against Norman McLeod Miller, an inspector under the Poisons Act, and Harcourt Holcombe, police magistrate at Forbes, to restrain them from proceeding in three cases in which John Meagher and Co. had been convicted in connection with the alleged unlawful sale of certain poison. Yesterday Mr. F. S. Boyce, instructed by Messrs. Sly and Russell, moved to make the rule absolute. Mr. Barton, instructed by the Crown Solicitor, who appeared for the respondents, admitted that, on the authority of an English case which he cited, service of the summonses had to be at the registered office of the firm proceeded against. In the present instances services had been effected on the applicant's manager at Forbes.

His Honor then made the rule absolute in each case, without costs.

BAIL REFUSED.

Rex v John Timmins.

This was an application on behalf of John Timmins, grazier, of Scrubby Park, Collarenebri, for bail, pending the hearing of a charge against him of shooting at, with intent to murder, Constable Denis Hayes. The depositions and affidavits in the case showed that Sergeant Small and Constable Hayes went out to the homestead of the accused on December 23 in connection with some missing sheep. The sergeant had a search warrant, which he read to Timmins, and asked him if he had any sheep in his paddock which did not belong to him. Timmins replied: "Wait till I get my horse and I will be with you." He came back in a few minutes, and, it is alleged, fired with a Winchester rifle point blank at Constable Hayes, the bullet passing through the latter's helmet. Hayes fell off his horse, and, on regaining his feet, he and the sergeant went to arrest Timmins, who struggled and kicked and bit the police. Hayes, it is alleged, picked up the rifle and struck Timmins on his head with the butt. He then with his stirrup leathers secured Timmins's legs. On the way to the lockup the sergeant asked Timmins why he shot at Hayes. He replied: "You drove me to it." Asked by Hayes: "How was it you missed me?" Timmins replied: "I'll tell you that in Court." The injury to the latter's head when struck by the rifle was treated by a doctor for 10 days.

Timmins was charged at Collarenebri Court on January 30, before F. W. C. Crane, acting police magistrate, with shooting, with intent to murder. The accused was committed for trial, bail being refused. The affidavit of J. T. McDonald, solicitor for Timmins stated that the accused had informed him that he was not guilty, and that he had a good defence to the charge, and that substantial bail could be given.

His Honor, in refusing bail, said that, as the depositions disclosed a serious offence, it would not be wise to allow bail to a man who had behaved with such violence when resisting arrest.

RESUMPTION AND RESCISION.

Holdsworth v Minister for Public Works.

Mr. Pike, instructed by the Crown Solicitor, moved, on behalf of the Minister for Public Works, to call upon Arthur Tertius Holdsworth to show cause why a writ of summons served by him on the Minister should not be set aside or further proceedings thereon stayed. The matter at issue related to the resumption of property in Caledonia-street, Paddington, for the purposes of the city and suburban railway, and the subsequent rescision of the resumption under the Act passed last year.

The grounds of the application were, inter alia, that the constructing authority had not yet considered the plaintiff's claim; that he had not given notice, to the plaintiff requiring him to bring an action for damage, and that the writ was issued contrary to the provisions of certain Acts. The action was to recover £562, being the amount of loss and damage alleged to have been sustained by him in consequence of the rescision.

It was stated by counsel, in the course of argument, that on the issue of the present case a large number of other suits of a like nature depended. His Honor reserved judgment.

REFLECTIONS ON BRITISH WOMEN.

Ex parte Breen, re Gumley.

This was a matter in which James Breen had appealed against his conviction at the Paddington Police Court by Charles Newton Payten, stipendiary magistrate, on the information of Charles Gumley, inspector of police. The charge against Breen was that, at a referendum meeting at Birrell-street, Waverley, he had used insulting words respecting British women and British officers on duty in France.

The defendant Breen was fined £5, and bound over in certain recognisances to be of good behaviour for twelve months. Mr. L. Armstrong (instructed by Mr. A. C. Roberts), who appeared for Breen, contended that in the section of the Act under which the latter was charged the insulting words must refer to a public person, and must be addressed to a particular person who was present when the words were uttered. Mr. Fetton, Faithfull, and Maddock, Proctors for the Applicant, 5 O'Connell-street, Sydney.

In giving judgment, his Honor said that Breen had hurled imputations of unchastity against British women engaged in serving their country. The words in the charge had been used in an address to men and women forming part of a British community. His Honor took it that the stipendiary magistrate had come to the conclusion that the words used were insulting within the meaning of the section of the Act. "I am not," concluded his Honor, "prepared to say that he was not entitled to come to that conclusion on the facts of the case. The rule was discharged with costs."

IN EQUITY.

(Before the Chief Judge, Mr. Justice Street.)

A MORTGAGE MATTER.

Mr. C. G. Davidson, instructed by Messrs. McDonell and Moffitt, made an ex parte application in Chambers, on behalf of Emogene Christina Te Kloot, to restrain her husband, Henry Te Kloot, from dealing with a mortgage held by him over a station property, known as Mearamie, near Warren. The applicant alleged that in 1893 and up to 1902 she was entitled for her separate use to certain property. She was married in 1891, to her husband, to whom she entrusted her investments, and the management of her property. He purchased Mearamie as a grazing business, and it is further alleged that the husband had sold this station, and that the mortgage now in question was part of the purchase money. He had, it was stated, declined to pay back to his wife her portion of moneys claimed to have been received by him on her behalf.

His Honor granted an interim injunction till to-morrow.

DISTRICT COURT.

(Before Judge Backhouse.)

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION.

Edwin Charles Bedford Ellis, as the legal representative of the late Arthur Bedford Ellis, of Mascot, applied for arbitration of his claim against J. Bayley and Sons, Ltd., of Botany, under the Workmen's Compensation Act of 1916. The case for the applicant was that A. B. Ellis was an employee of the respondents at their tannery. It was alleged that he met his death by touching a live electric wire on respondents' premises.

The respondents denied liability, and stated that the claim was inaccurate in its details. They also said that A. B. Ellis was not killed on respondents' premises, but on the roof of an adjoining shed, where he had no right or occasion to be.

His Honor found in favour of the respondents, and held that the accident did not occur while A. B. Ellis was in the employ of the respondents. Mr. W. W. Perry, Inspector of Awards, appeared for the applicant; and Mr. D. S. Edwards, instructed by Messrs. Dawson, Waldron, and Glover, for the respondents.

QUARTER SESSIONS.

(Before Judge Docker and Juries.)

Mr. Herbert Harris, Crown Prosecutor.

Alfred James McIntosh, for whom Mr. L. R. Abigail appeared, pleaded not guilty to having stolen at Sydney, on November 23, 40 bags of maize, the property of T. McHugh, Ltd., acting upon his Honor's direction the jury, without leaving the box, acquitted the accused, and he was discharged.

Arcadio Sic Sico, who was defended by Mr. H. E. McIntosh, pleaded not guilty to having at Sydney, on November 26, being then a plain-sergeant in the Australian Army Pay Corps, stolen £22 12s 2d, belonging to the Commonwealth. The jury returned a verdict of guilty, with a strong recommendation to mercy, and the accused was remanded for sentence.

Cecil Thorne Borrian, charged with embezzling, at Sydney, on December 1, 1917, whilst in the employ of the British Imperial Oil Company, Ltd., the sum of £1711, and whose plea of guilty to embezzling £210 was accepted by the Crown, was sentenced to four years' penal servitude. Mr. J. W. Abigail appeared for the accused.

DEATH OF MR. C. B. LILLEY.

Mr. Charles Bertram Lilley, second son of the late Sir Charles Lilley, formerly Chief Justice of Queensland, has died at Coogee. He was a well-known solicitor in Queensland, and practised in Brisbane for many years.

CHAPTER XI.—Continued.

It was a strange psychological fact that though these men had been partners for a period covering the most important part of their lives they had next to nothing in common. They were excellent partners in business matters; Mallalieu knew Cotherstone and Cotherstone knew Mallalieu in all things relating to the making of money. But in taste, temperament, character, understanding, they were as far apart as the poles. This aloofness when tested further by the recent discomposing events manifested itself in a disinclination to confidence. Mallalieu, whatever he thought, knew very well that he would never say what he thought to Cotherstone; Cotherstone knew precisely the same thing with regard to Mallalieu. But this silence bred irritation, and as the days went by the irritation became more than Cotherstone could bear. He was a highly-strung, nervous man, quick to feel and to appreciate, and the averted looks and monosyllabic remarks and replies of a man into whose company he could not avoid being thrown began to sting him to something like madness. And one day, left alone in the office with Mallalieu when Stoner the clerk had gone to get his dinner, the irritation became unbearable, and he turned on his partner in a sudden white heat of ungovernable and impotent anger.

"Damn you!" he hissed between his set teeth. "I believe you think I did that job! And if you do, blast you, why don't you say so, and be done with it?"

Mallalieu, who was standing on the hearth, warming his broad back at the fire, thrust his hands deeply into his pockets and looked half-sneeringly at his partner out of his screwed-up eyes.

"I should advise you to keep yourself cool," he said with affected quietness. "There's more than me'll think a good deal if you chance to let yourself out like that."

"You do think it!" reiterated Cotherstone passionately. "Damn it, d'ye think I haven't noticed it? Always looking at me as if—as if——"

"Now, then, keep yourself calm," interrupted Mallalieu. "I can look at you or at any other in any way I like, can't I? There's no need to distress yourself—I shan't give aught away. If you took it in your head to settle matters—as they were settled—well, I shan't say a word. That is unless—you understand?"

"Understand what!" screamed Cotherstone.

"Unless I'm obliged to," answered Mallalieu. "I should have to make it clear that I'd naught to do with that particular matter, d'ye see? Every man for himself's a sound principle. But—I see no need. I don't believe there'll be any need. And it doesn't matter the value of that pen that's shaking so in your hand to me if an innocent man suffers—if he's innocent o' that, he's guilty o' something else. You're safe with me."

Cotherstone flung the pen on the floor and stamped on it. And Mallalieu laughed cynically and walked slowly across to the door.

"You're a fool, Cotherstone," he said. "Go on a bit more like that, and you'll let it all out to somebody 'at 'll not keep secrets as I can. Cool yourself, man, cool yourself!"

"Damn you!" shouted Cotherstone. "Mind I don't let something out about you! Where were you that night, I should like to know? Or rather, I do know! Blast you, you're no safer than I am! And if I told what I do know——"

Mallalieu, with his hand on the latch, turned and looked his partner in the face—without furtiveness, for once.

"And if you told aught that you do, or fancy you know," he said quietly, "there'd be ruin in your home, you soft fool! I thought you wanted things kept quiet for your lass's sake. Pshaw!—you're taking leave o' your senses!"

He walked out at that, and Cotherstone, shaking with anger, relapsed into a chair and cursed his fate. And after a time he recovered himself and began to think, and his thoughts turned instinctively to Lettie.

Mallalieu was right—of course, he was right! Anything that he, Cotherstone, could say or do in the way of bringing up the things that must be suppressed would ruin Lettie's chances. So, at any rate, it seemed to him. For Cotherstone's mind was essentially a worldly one, and it was beyond him to believe that an ambitious young man like Windle Bent would care to ally himself with the daughter of an ex-convict. Bent would have the best of excuses for breaking off all relations with the Cotherstone family if the unpleasant truth came out. No!—whatever else he did, he must keep the secret safe until Bent and Lettie were safely married. That once accomplished, Cotherstone cared little about the future: Bent could not go back on his wife. And so Cotherstone endeavoured to calm himself so that he could scheme and plot, and before night came he paid a visit to his doctor, and when he went home that evening he had his plans laid.

Bent was with Lettie when Cotherstone got home, and Cotherstone presently got the two of them into a little smuggery, which he kept sacred to himself as a rule. He sat down in his easy chair, and signed to them to sit near him.

"I'm glad I found you together," he said. "There's something I want to say. There's no call for you to be frightened, Lettie—but what I've got to say is serious. And I'll put it straight—Bent'll understand. Now, you'd arranged to get married next spring—six months hence. I want you to change your minds, and to let it be as soon as you can."

He looked with a certain eager wistfulness at Lettie, expecting to see her start with surprise. But fond as he was of her, Cotherstone had so far failed to grasp the later developments of his daughter's character. Lettie Cotherstone was not the sort of young woman who allows herself to be surprised by anything. She was remarkably level-headed, cool of thought, well able to take care of herself in every way, and fully alive to the possibilities of her union with the rising young manufacturer. And instead of showing any astonishment, she quietly asked her father what he meant.

"I tell you," answered Cotherstone, greatly relieved to find that both seemed inclined to talk matters quietly over. "It's this—I've not been feeling as well as I ought to feel, lately. The fact is, Bent, I've done too much in my time. A man can work too hard, you know—and it tells on him in the end. So the doctor says, anyhow."

"The doctor!" exclaimed Lettie. "You haven't been to him?"

"Seen him this afternoon," replied Cotherstone. "Don't alarm yourself. But that's what he says—naught wrong, all sound, but—it's time I rested. Rest and change—complete change. And I've made up my mind—I'm going to retire from business. Why not? I'm a well-to-do man—better off than most folks 'ul think. I shall tell Mallalieu to-morrow. Yes—I'm resolved on it. And that done, I shall go and travel for a year or two. I've always wanted to go round the world. I'll go—that for a start, anyway. And the sooner the better, says the doctor. And——" here he looked searchingly at his listeners—"I'd like to see you settled before I go. What?"

Lettie's calm and judicial character came out in the first words she spoke. She had listened carefully to Cotherstone; now she turned to Bent.

"Windle," she said, as quietly as if she were asking the most casual of questions, "wouldn't it upset all your arrangements for next year? You see, father," she went on, turning to Cotherstone, "Windle had arranged everything. He was going to have the whole of the spring and summer away from business; we were going on the Continent for six months. And that would have to be entirely altered and——"

"We could alter it," interrupted Bent. He was watching Cotherstone closely, and fancying that he saw a strained and eager look in his face, he decided that Cotherstone was keeping something back, and had not told them the full truth about his health.

"It's all a matter of arrangement. I could arrange to go away during the winter, Lettie."

"But I don't want to travel in winter," objected Lettie. "Besides—I've made all my arrangements about my gowns and things."

"That can be arranged, too," said Bent. "The dressmaker can work overtime."

"That'll mean that everything will be hurried—and spoiled," replied Lettie. "Besides, I've arranged everything with my bridesmaids. They can't be expected to——"

"We can do without bridesmaids," replied Bent, laying his hand on Lettie's arm. "If your father really feels that he's got to have the rest and the change he spoke of, and wants us to be married first, why, then——"

"But there's nothing to prevent you having a rest and a change now, father," said Lettie. "Why not? I don't like my arrangements to be altered—I had planned everything out so carefully. When we did fix on next spring, Windle, I had only just time as it was."

"Pooh!" said Bent. "We could get married day after to-morrow if we wanted. Bridesmaids—gowns—all that sort of tomfoolery, what does it matter?"

"It isn't tomfoolery," retorted Lettie. "If I am to be married I should like to be married properly."

She got up, with a heightened colour and a little toss of the head, and left the room, and the two men looked at each other.

"Talk to her, my lad," said Cotherstone at last. "Of course, girls think such a lot of—of all the accompaniments, eh?"

"Yes, yes—it'll be all right," replied Bent. He tapped Cotherstone's arm, and gave him a searching look. "You're not keeping anything back—about your health, are you?" he asked.

Cotherstone glanced at the door and sank his voice to a whisper.

"It's my heart!" he answered. "Over-strained—much over-strained, the doctor says. Rest and change—imperative! But—not a word to Lettie, Bent. Talk her round—get it arranged. I shall feel safer—you understand?"

Bent was full of good nature, and thought he understood to the full—it was a natural thing, this anxiety of a father for his only child. He promised to talk seriously to Lettie at once about an early wedding. And that night he told Brereton of what had happened, and asked him if he knew how special licenses could be got, and Brereton informed him of all he knew on that point—and kept silence about one which to him was becoming deeply and seriously important.

PEACE DEMONSTRATION.

What was termed a great peace rally was held in the Protestant Hall on Tuesday night. The attendance was not large, numbering about 300. The chair was occupied by Mr. William Cooper, and among those on the platform were Mrs. Locke Burns, Mrs. Lalor, Miss Vida Goldstein, Miss I. Swann, Miss Sullivan, Rev. A. Rivett, Messrs. A. Rae, A. C. Willis, G. Waite, Reardon, H. C. Ullmann, C. H. Lloyd, and J. M. Price. The following motions were carried:—

That this meeting of citizens of Sydney considers that the time has arrived when the vital needs of humanity demand a cessation of the present world-wide war. We, therefore, are of opinion that Great Britain and her Allies should commence negotiations for an international peace conference for the just settlement of all matters in dispute on the basis of no annexations, no indemnities, and the right of all peoples to the government of their choice. "Recognising that commercial rivalries for foreign markets are the primary causes of all modern wars, we urge the democracies of the world to unite to secure such economic changes as will make possible a just and enduring peace between all civilised communities."

GREATER SYDNEY BILL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—There is one correction I desire to make in an otherwise admirable condensed report of the deputation yesterday. I am represented as saying that "we have not got one really decent road in Sydney." What I really said was, "We had no decent main arterial road; and that if the scheme laid down in the Greater Sydney Bill were accepted by Cabinet the first duty of the Civic Planning Commission, which would be created under the Act, would be to provide adequate arterial roads of a width of 100 feet. This would relieve the congestion from which the commerce of Sydney is now suffering to the detriment of the whole State, and at the cost of an avoidable economic loss, which is deplorable."

I am, etc.,
JOHN D. FITZGERALD.

What Doctors Think of Tea.

DOCTORS of world-wide reputation agree that properly-made Tea of fine quality is decidedly beneficial to you, both as a pleasant way of carrying water through the system and as a stimulating "tonic" for wearied brain and muscle. Doctors insist that few of us consume liquid enough to keep the human machine in good working order.

In common Teas there is a quantity of bitter tannin dust which remains suspended in the liquid for you to drink.

Bushells Blue Label Tea is freed from such unhealthful dust by a wonderful mechanical process that blows out every particle of dead dust, leaving bright and clean the tiny leaves, just as they are cured on the sunny hillsides of Ceylon.

If you would have a pure, healthful Tea with a delicious flavour, buy Bushells Blue Label, the best and purest Tea your Grocer sells.

1/9 lb., but worth 2/6.

QUALITY OF WHEAT.

A wheatgrower, in the course of the following letter, raises an interesting point, and makes a suggestion which appears to us to be practicable, and is certainly fair, as a means of obviating the obvious unfairness of the f.a.q. system. He writes:—

"There is much dissatisfaction among farmers with regard to deductions being made in price for wheat below f.a.q. standard. No one expects so much for wheat averaging 55lb per bushel as for wheat averaging 60lb per bushel. But it follows logically that one does expect more for wheat averaging 65 than for wheat averaging 60. If deductions in price are made for wheats below the standard, surely it is only fair that correspondingly advanced prices be paid for wheats above the standard. Would not the fairest possible way of dealing with this question be that the receiving agents should thoroughly mix all samples taken from each farmer? The test of quality being made from the mixed wheat, and the farmer paid accordingly? In many cases this season 90 per cent. of a farmer's wheat has been above the standard, and 10 per cent. below it. He, therefore, gets a deduction made of probably 5d or 6d per bushel on 10 per cent. of his wheat, and is paid 3s per bushel for 90 per cent. Whereas, if the average quality of his wheat were taken it would be above the standard, and he would receive 3s per bushel for the whole of his wheat. A farmer has two plots of wheat standing side by side, both ripe and both equal in area, but the grain of one is below the standard and the grain of the other above the standard (this actually happened this year. The two wheats were Federation and Marshall's No. 3. The quality of the Federation was 56 and that of the Marshall's 64) he is quite at liberty to strip the two together and the combined wheats will be up to standard, or, probably, above it, as the better wheat is more than likely to yield a greater number of bags per acre. Good wheat and inferior wheat are stacked together, and must eventually be sold together. So, if a sample be taken for future selling purposes it will represent the average quality of the whole season's wheat, and not the quality of portions of it."

Seeing that all the farmers' wheat is handled by the pool is there any insuperable difficulty in averaging the quality of his wheat and paying accordingly?

FRUITGROWERS.

The record attendance at a meeting of fruit growers, held at Kurrajong last Saturday, to hear an address by Mr. E. P. Crowther, and support a local branch of the Fruitgrowers' Association of New South Wales, is significant of the awakening at last to the need for co-operative effort. For years the fruitgrowers have lacked the organisation that is essential in the primary industries under present conditions, if they are to receive a fair deal. The indications are that this undesirable state is coming to an end. The record meeting at Kurrajong was due to a close canvass amongst local growers, but the main spur, no doubt, was the fact that the A.W.U. has brought growers into the Arbitration Court. That being the position, commonsense impels the growers to organise so that their case may be put properly before the Court, in order that they may secure a fair deal. Seeing what is at stake, every fruitgrower in the State should not only join the association, but should contribute to the defence fund being raised in his own interests.

PRIMARY INDUSTRIES LEAGUE.

Mr. L. A. Saunders, secretary of the Primary Industries League, stated yesterday that he had received a communication from Mr. C. F. Lindeman (managing director of Lindeman's, Ltd.), in which that gentleman makes a suggestion that should commend itself to all those interested in the development of our primary and allied industries. Mr. Lindeman writes:—"As far as I can see, money is the only necessity we shall require for present developments in connection with the Primary Industries Development League. I would suggest that the governing council should at once set to work, and see how many life members can be secured. My opinion is, that you should secure life membership not only from those directly interested in primary products, but also all business people whose very life depends solely on primary industries. That is bankers, insurance, and soft goods people, hardware merchants, and everyone else in all kinds of business. It affords me very great pleasure to become the first life member of the league, and my cheque for ten guineas is at your disposal. I feel that the league should become a powerful factor in promoting the wealth and progress of our primary industries."

SHEEP DISEASES.

TASS.—At a meeting of the Yass P.P. Board motions were passed urging upon the Minister that the provisions of the Sheep Diseases and Tick Act relating to the tick and louse infestation of sheep be placed under the control of P.P. Boards, and that the Minister be asked to grant permission to the board to expend some of its funds in rabbit destruction on reserves within its area.

FOODSTUFFS EXHIBITION.

BLACKTOWN.—The exhibition committee is in receipt of a number of donations, as well as many promises of assistance, for the first exhibition of foodstuffs produced within the Nepean electorate and Parramatta district.

PRIMARY PRODUCERS' UNION.

CASINO.—The annual meeting of the Primary Producers' Union, held at Kyogle, was largely attended 45 branches being represented by 76 delegates. The presidential report claimed that the foundation of the P.P. Union was laid on a firm basis. The union had gone to work slowly and cautiously, but the programme was an ambitious one, and they would aim ultimately at developing such strength and power as to be able to take the offensive, if other methods failed. A good sign for the future was increased interest shown in the district and branch meetings. The war would alter all social conditions, and it would take time to restore them to normal. The union must see the primary producers' interests were properly conserved. The financial statement showed that subscriptions amounted to £2638 10s 8d, representing a membership of 4230. £2004 3s 6d had been received, and had been remitted to the head office. Seventeen new branches were formed during the year, the total now being 51. The election of officers resulted:—President, Mr. C. J. M'Crae; vice-presidents, Messrs. R. F. Alcorn, R. W. Simes; secretary, Mr. M. P. Dunlop.

STOCK STATISTICS.

BATHURST.—An official return prepared by the stock inspector for the Bathurst P.P. District shows that the owners' returns, plus the estimate of numbers not covered in the returns, indicates the stock in the district to stand: Horses 13,423, cattle 30,476, and sheep 550,848. Compared with the previous year's returns, these figures show a decrease in horses of 981 and an increase in sheep and cattle of 38,432 and 5970 respectively. The inspector points out that the decrease in horses is due to the fact that generally prices have declined. Consequently, owners have not been breeding to the same extent as formerly.

RABBITS.

BATHURST.—The P.P. Board has adopted the recommendation of Inspector Lynch for the prosecution of a number of landholders for the non-destruction of rabbits. The inspector reports a great reduction in rabbits in isolated parts of the district, and attributes the fact to the heavy, continuous rains of last spring, when thousands must have perished in the water-soaked burrows, while the does moved away to drier country for breeding. In other parts, however, the pest remains unabated.

SHOALHAVEN SHOW.

NOWRA.—The annual show, which was opened on Wednesday, was considerably marred as a result of heavy rain up to midday. The weather conditions improved in the afternoon. The pavilion display of vegetables, fruit, and dairy produce was one of the finest so far on the South Coast. Poultry has always been an outstanding feature of the Shoalhaven Show, and this year's entries proved a record. The main attraction was the magnificent collection of cattle on the ground. Mr. H. M. Somer, secretary of the Sydney Royal Agricultural Society, who was an interested spectator, remarked that the cattle were the finest lot he had seen. In fact, they were the best in Australia, particularly in the milk cow classes. What he could not understand was that a local show, such as Nowra, could produce cattle superior in many instances to what they had at the Sydney Royal or at Melbourne. The splendid efforts put forth by country societies were deserving of every credit, and he hoped the time would soon arrive when they would be all welded into one solid union for the increased benefit of all concerned.

The chief cattle event was the champion group, any breed, comprising bull, cow in milk, dry cow, and three heifers. The prizes totalled £25. Mr. J. Pritchard, of Numba, took first prize, the group including the Ayrshire bull Jamie of Kabibinokka. Mr. A. C. Lamond was second, with Holsteins; Mr. G. Gray third, with Illawarras; and Mr. Geo. Tait fourth, with Shorthorns. Mr. Pritchard was also successful in winning the championship in his class with the same bull. Mr. F. S. Morton's Honeycomb of Lynburn, a great producer, having up to 73lb of milk per day, was similarly honoured as champion Ayrshire cow. In Jerseys Mr. Theo. Gray's Dianah's Lad was champion bull, and Mr. M. W. Hyams' Locus II. of Nowra, champion cow. Mr. E. R. Bigg took champion honours in Illawarras with his bull Loyalist, and Mr. G. Gray's cow, Gentle, was awarded a championship, with Mr. E. R. Bigg's Nellie reserve champion. In Holsteins Mr. A. C. Lamond took both champions with his bull, Fane King of Brock, an American importation, and cow Lunta I. of Brundee. In Shorthorns the competition was very keen; the champion bull proved to be Mr. P. Caffrey's Rufus of Darbalara, purchased at Sydney Show two years ago as a bull calf for 100 guineas. So far he has an unbeaten record. Mr. T. Daley's Princess of Woodbine was the champion Shorthorn cow. The grand champion bull of the show was Mr. J. Pritchard's Ayrshire, Jamie of Kabibinokka for the fourth time, with Mr. E. R. Bigg's Illawarra Loyalist reserve. The champion cow of the show was Mr. M. W. Hyam's Jersey, Locus II. of Nowra, with Mr. F. S. Morton's Ayrshire, Honeycomb of Lynburn reserve. In other champion groups the following were successful:—Three dry cows and three cows in milk, A. C. Lamond; two-year-old heifer, Mrs. Tate; yearling heifers, Mrs. Tate; heifers under twelve months, Mr. J. Pritchard; bull and progeny, Mrs. Tate.

SALE OF STOCK.

SINGLETON.—A store cattle sale was held here by Pitt, Son, and Badgery and H. York and Son, in conjunction, on Friday on behalf of the executors in the estate of the late Richard Binnie's Macrannie property. There were 414 head of pure-bred shorthorn females (exclusive of calves) yarded, including yearling heifers to aged cows with calves at foot. The whole lot averaged nearly £21. The cattle showed careful breeding and selection, but the condition was not as good as expected considering the season. Yearling to 18-months heifers sold from £31/10/ to £19/13/. Cows in calf reached £34/13/, cows with calfs at foot made £35/14/. The sales totalled over £8600.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

MERRIWA.—At a large meeting of residents near and adjoining Collaroy soldiers' settlement to discuss ridding the settlement of rabbits by voluntary efforts, it was arranged that all present gather on a given date to assist, about 20 poison carts being promised. Several owners have been prosecuted for not destroying rabbits, and fines were imposed, one being for £10.

ORANGE.—Extensive arrangements are being made for planting new orchards and extending existing ones during the coming season. Already one firm of nurserymen has booked orders for over 11,000 trees, whilst other orders are on a large scale.

CHALCID WASP.

C.C. (Barraba).—Apply to Mr. W. W. Froggatt, Government Entomologist, Department of Agriculture, Sydney.

POULTRY.

W.R.—Instructions are usually given with the set of caponising instruments. A practical demonstration is much preferable, but from a commercial standpoint caponising is of no advantage. There is always a percentage of losses of birds that have been caponised.

A.G.P. (Kogarah).—There is always a difficulty in administering worm medicine to flocks. Individual birds can be treated by giving a mixture of oil of turps and salad oil in equal quantities at the rate of 10 drops of the mixture to each bird in a bit of pollard or bread. You may give instead seven grains of powdered areca nut, in the same way. The medicine should be given to the bird while fasting, and they should not be given food for three hours afterwards. A teaspoonful of Epsom salt should be given before food. The disease in your ducklings is white eye, for which there is no cure in the stage you mention. It affects them in a similar way to roup in fowls.

Curious.—Hens should be disposed of after the second year's laying, as their value as egg producers becomes very much less after that period. The first 15 to 18 months of a hen's life are the most profitable. The methods of forcing pullets with early laying are disagreed with by most of the leading poultry breeders.

X.—Soft-shelled eggs may be due to an aged hen or to over stimulating food or the lack of shell grit in the run.

Weevil.—It would not be profitable to treat such a small quantity.

The announcement that the State Wheat Board intends to provide good and cheap wheat to poultry farmers at different railway centres has been received with satisfaction among those engaged in the industry. The distribution of wheat suitable for fowl feed has been unsatisfactory for some time, and the prices that have been paid in some instances for wheat of inferior quality indicated pretty clearly that some poultry farmers have been overcharged. The scheme now put forward by Mr. R. S. Drummond, who last week made a tour of the poultry farming districts adjacent to Sydney, should enable farmers to obtain satisfactory supplies, whether they want large or small quantities of wheat.

The shortage of pollard and bran has been a matter of serious concern among Victorian poultry breeders, while in New Zealand a similar state of affairs is said to exist. In Victoria some poultry farmers are finding crushed wheat satisfactory, and it is recommended as a substitute when pollard and bran are not obtainable.

The report of the egg-laying competition for January, which is being held at the Queensland Agricultural College, Gatton, states:—"Another very unfavourable month for egg production has been passed through. Almost continuous rain has prevailed throughout the month. The number of eggs laid for January was 6092. E. Chester again heads in the light breeds with 144 eggs. In the heavy section R. Burns and Mars Poultry Farm are equal for first place, with 113. A large number of the birds are moulting. Broodiness has not been as prevalent during the month, but the total cases amongst some of the birds, and the time taken to get over each period, do not leave much time for laying. In 12 pens in the six hen test, 40 individual birds have five or more cases of broodiness against them, whilst three birds have been broody ten times each."

Mr. D. F. Laurie, the South Australian Government Poultry Expert, offers the following comment on the value of green feed in connection with certain tests made by him to ascertain the cost of egg production:—"All stock like a full feed. Green food supplies bulk and cheap bulk. It also supplies the invaluable mineral salts, in the absence of which no stock can thrive for any length of time. There is without doubt a foolish prejudice, due to ignorance, in regard to the free use of lucerne and other green food. Those who talk about bad effects on the egg do so in ignorance of the fact that from green food we get much of the colouring matter necessary for eggs with rich yolks. In the green succulent growths we gain an additional and invaluable water supply, especially in hot weather. The water in the bodies of poultry and the water content of eggs are about 65 per cent., and a shortage of water and great heat, with the absence of green food, means less water in eggs, and, therefore, smaller and lighter eggs."

Turkey-raising is carried on fairly extensively in some of our country districts, but the prevalence of disease among the young stock and the damage done by foxes have disheartened some breeders. Those farmers who are able to overcome the difficulties find the turkey a paying proposition, as the foraging habit of the birds, especially on a wheat farm, means economical feeding. Of all the varieties bred Bronze turkeys are likely to prove the most suitable, in the opinion of Mr. Jas. Hadlington, Government poultry expert. He further advises that turkey eggs should be hatched by turkey hens where practicable, but they may be hatched by other hens. Little success is likely to be obtained by using incubators for hatching; not more than 25 to 30 per cent. will be found to hatch, although, if the eggs are set under hens for the first half of the period of incubation, and then placed in the incubators, better results are obtainable. Hens will be found to set best when they make their own nest, and it is necessary to put shelter over them with a few bushes in front, making the nest look as natural as possible. It is essential that feed and water should be placed near the nest, and grain, either maize or wheat, may be used. If the turkey chickens are not hatching all together the chickens should be taken away, so that the hen may hatch the balance. The chickens removed should be placed in a basket or box lined with flannel, and kept warm until the hatch is complete, when they should be given back to the hen. This practice prevents a lot of casualties at hatching time. For the first three weeks after the hatch the turkey hen should be kept confined to a small enclosure to prevent her roaming too far, and wearying the chickens.

BUTTER EXPORT.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

Instructions have been issued by the Federal Government that in future no permits to ship butter to countries other than Great Britain shall be issued in respect of surplus stocks. This action has been taken in order to ensure that all available supplies shall be forwarded to Great Britain. Permits will only be issued where the Imperial Government or its representative in Britain is the consignee.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT.

THE NEW MAYORS AND PRESIDENTS.

For the next fourteen days every shire and council will have two presidents, and every municipal council will have two mayors. One is the actual occupant of the office, who will not surrender his position until the 28th of the month; the other is the successful candidate at the recent election, who will assume his office on March 1. Some complaint has been made that the system followed does not allow sufficient play for the individual opinions or policy of the mayor or president. This year money has been scarcer than usual, and nearly all the councils have been forced to get their estimates out very early. The result is when the new mayor takes office he finds that not only has the amount of revenue been fixed, but by the adopting of the estimates it has been nearly all earmarked for definite purposes. So far, however, no satisfactory system has been suggested which will obviate this difficulty. The only way out would be to alter all the election periods so that the mayoral year would commence on January 1 and expire on December 31.

LINKING UP WORK.

For some years Lidcombe Council has been adhering to a practice in road construction which, though not new, is worth setting out as a reminder to those councils which have not adopted it. It has laid down the rule that no permanent work is to be done except to join up with other permanent work. One would think this so obvious as not to need special mention; but, unfortunately, it is a very common sight in country towns to pass over alternate lengths of sticky mud and well-laid asphalt in walking along the streets. In fact, it would be a wise policy if councils went further. Wherever possible they should lay out a comprehensive system of town improvement radiating from the most important centre. Upon this they should spend whatever money is possible from patching and repairing so that year after year the system of finished permanent roadways will develop through the town. One of the most notable instances of the success of this method is at Broken Hill, where the main business block has now been completed and the work is stretching out along the auxiliary streets.

THREEPENCE A YEAR.

According to a report placed before the Meroo Shire Council the public pounds at Hargraves, Windeyer, and Wollar are practically a record for the smallness of takings. The total amount of revenue obtained from the three of them for the past six years amounts to 5s 6d, which is an average of about 3½d per year per pound. The council made a recommendation to the department that the pounds should be closed. These figures suggest that it would be wise for a thorough investigation to be made of pounds right throughout the country, in order to ascertain whether a number of them should not be closed and the land used as pound sites devoted to more profitable purposes. The keeping of a pound is a somewhat intricate business, always entailing upon the council that runs it a certain amount of risk if the duties laid down by the statute are not carefully observed. Unless an impounding is done in the proper way and by the proper officers it amounts to an illegal seizing of stock. It will be expensive if the councils have these facts forced upon them by litigation.

THE EFFECT OF ESTIMATES.

From the beginning to the end of each year there are continual arguments in councils as to whether they are bound to adhere to their published estimates. Wollongong Council obtained an opinion from the Local Government Association, part of which reads:—"No hard and fast rule can be laid down because every case stands on its own merits. A council is not, of course, bound entirely by its estimates. It is always at liberty in any case of need to depart from them in the amount it spends, or it may altogether abandon some of the items. No case has ever been decided in New South Wales, but in Victoria a shire council was restrained from proceeding to spend a large sum of money on the erection of a shire hall where no provision had been made in the estimates for such an amount. The Court would probably not interfere in the case of a departure from the estimates unless it could be shown the departure was wanton or not bona-fide, or that it entailed running a council heavily into debt." Most of the force of this advising lies in the final sentence. Running into debt would be the most serious part of the offence.

THE HEAVY LOAD.

The Bannockburn Shire Council has had cause to complain of the damage done to its roads by excessive loading. Particulars were placed before it at last meeting of some loads brought into the local mill. One load consisted of 120 bags, weighing 9 tons 12cwt, and the other 110 bags, weighing 8 tons 16cwt. So long, however, as the law places no restriction upon the weight which can be carried or the width of the tyre which may be used councils are quite powerless to protect their roads. In the Local Government Bill the most that can be carried on one vehicle is 14 tons, and then only when it is placed upon a four-wheeled vehicle with tyres not less than 7½in wide. It was once pointed out that under the old Works Department system it would have paid the Government to have presented a pair of broad tyres to every vehicle owner in the State. The cost of buying the tyres would have been more than met by the decrease in the expenditure on road repairs.

THE FIGURES OF KERBING AND GUTTERING.

In a thoughtful report to Wollongong Council from the roads overseer, the following effective argument was given:—"It must be clear to the council the question of continually cleaning out water tables was unsatisfactory. The cost of cleaning was approximately 6s to 7s per chain. As concrete kerbing and guttering would cost approximately £4 8s, it should be plain that if the drains were cleaned out twice per year the cost of cleaning would in six years equal the cost of kerbing and guttering, which required practically no maintenance after once laid. During 1917 1100 chains of water-table had been cleared at a cost of close on £300." Lidcombe Council placed the matter in another aspect. In deciding on a principle of devoting money to concrete kerbing and guttering rather than asphalting, an alderman said:—"It is better for a householder to come home occasionally with wet feet than for his children to die from typhoid or diphtheria from the stagnant water in the drains."

A COMMON QUERY.

A correspondent asks:—"Would you kindly inform me if a council has the power under the Act to raise the rates every 12 months?" This query is wrung from him by the fact that for each of the last two years the rate has been raised. Councils have absolute and unquestioned power to strike any rate they deem advisable, so long as it does not exceed the limit fixed by law. A ratepayer has no remedy, and has no escape. His only plan is to lie in wait for that council on election day, and see that others are returned who are men of different minds. All this is so obvious as not to require stating were it not for the extraordinary fact that every person is inclined to think when a council does something he does not agree with that he should have the right to go to somebody to upset their policy. Councils undoubtedly at times make mistakes, just as do Parliaments, autocrats, or any other form of government. There is satisfaction to be gained from the profound remark of Sir Henry Campbell Bannerman that "self-government is better than good government."

THE ORDEAL OF WAR.

It was fitting that the King's speech at the opening of a new session of the Imperial Parliament should be framed in language which will reach beyond the assembled Lords and Commons to the people of the whole Empire. In our system of government the monarchy symbolises the union of the several Dominions with the United Kingdom. At the present time the King's speech is the only utterance delivered in Parliament which can be kept entirely free from the spirit of controversy or from the suggestion of intrigue. The circumstances in which it was delivered give point and emphasis to a speech which was at once an appeal for further endurance and an expression of gratitude for the exertions and the sacrifices of the past. British subjects and their Allies stand now at the end of one of the campaigns which has made greater demands on the fortitude and the courage of a nation than any other in history. There can be no competition in hardships between the armies of Gallipoli, of Mesopotamia, of Verdun, and of Ypres. Each has fought with a devotion beyond the limits hitherto assigned to human endurance. But the campaign of Ypres is distinguished from every other, both by the nature of the conditions under which it was fought and by the magnitude and representative character of the armies engaged. When the advance was planned Sir Douglas Haig knew that he was putting a severe test to his men, but he never anticipated the obstacles which abnormally bad weather would add to the skilful tactics of the enemy. The capture of each yard of territory was preceded by a struggle with nature which would have turned back any less heroic soldiers. The enemy had unlooked-for opportunities of throwing back an advance before their lines were reached. When positions had been taken the occupying force must live in misery while the defenders were organising their counter-attacks. By the end the British had suffered heavy casualties, a great part of which must have been incurred at Ypres. They had taken the last of the German defences within the salient. The campaign had brought them many great successes, but it had left them very far from the goal which they had been encouraged to hope for at the beginning. Instead of having obtained the conditions under which a decisive victory might be gained they found themselves thrown back on the defensive before enlarged and strengthened German armies. The sufferings of the civil population of Great Britain have been different from those of the army in kind as well as in degree. They have, however, imposed an equally severe test on the spirit of the nation. The people have seen the list of casualties growing inexorably until every home in the kingdom has been thrown into mourning. They have been faced with a scarcity of food for which no organisation or discipline has prepared them, while they have been working with a persistent energy which was bound to produce weariness of brain and body. If it is only in the United Kingdom that physical privations have appeared the hardships of the campaign have been borne by all the troops alike, and their losses have been felt throughout the Empire. The King's gratitude is, therefore, directed to all his subjects alike, and with it his appeal to stand fast in spite of all disappointments.

The strength of this appeal depends on the popular knowledge that there is no concealment of dangers or of purpose. The recent discussion of war aims between President Wilson and the Allied Ministers on the one hand, and the German Chancellor on the other, has removed a number of doubts that had been allowed to grow up about the war aims of the Allies. It is now clear that no life is being or will be sacrificed for any object that is not essential to the honourable existence of civilised men. The dangers which British statesmen perceived when they knew that war could not be avoided, are still as serious as ever. The consequences of accepting the German terms are now what they would have been if France had been overrun and Great Britain had decided to remain neutral. It is because the German temper has been so clearly revealed that an appeal can be made with so much confidence to a democratic people. The demand to be made can be measured only by the strength of the enemy. Carefully sifted information has shown the Imperial Government that none but the utmost sacrifices can guarantee the victory which is safety under another name. Under present conditions energy is no less important than goodwill. Neither side can for ever put up with the strain of continued loss of life and an enormous daily expenditure. The Germans have to bear harder social and economic conditions than the Allies, but their occupation of French and Belgian territory gives them an advantage which the Allies have not. They can employ alien labour to relieve their non-combatants, and they can look forward to a compromise as in many respects the equivalent of a victory. Provided they can come to the peace conference in possession of the territory of their enemies they can successfully refuse to make any reparation for their crimes or to give any guarantee against a repetition of their treachery. Those of the Allies who survive the extreme test now put to them will be worthy partners in a future which is governed by the laws of equality and justice and freedom and peace. The people which has failed in adversity will be a partner on sufferance only. Among the victorious but stricken nations who have done their utmost to the last it will be greeted with the tolerance which an eligible civilian may expect to receive from a group of returned soldiers.

SHIPBUILDING.

If there is one subject, next after recruiting for our splendid forces at the front, which must be kept prominently in mind throughout the Commonwealth, it is that of shipbuilding. We have only to imagine a great public agitation arising under this head, with meetings being held everywhere to enforce and advertise a deep public conviction, and the pressure upon the Government would become irresistible. This is the reply to those who are condemning the present Federal Government for inaction. It is only fair to admit, however, that much must depend always upon the lead given by the country's accredited representatives. Ministers, for instance, to-day are supposed to have inside knowledge to justify action or inaction; and in war-time power is necessarily concentrated in the hands of the Government for extraordinary use. Things absolutely impossible in time of peace are not only permitted but recognised as imperative in time of war. Thus it is interesting to find how the people of the United States are looking to Mr. Wilson for inspiration, and how thoroughly they have awakened to his call to fight Germany to the last ditch. Critics of Mr. Hughes and his colleagues declare that in Australia the great lead ending in heart-satisfying action has never been given because words have been the first and last element in a situation continually calling for something more. This has been specially applied to shipbuilding, although the Minister for the Navy has shown that preliminary work—definite and fruitful action—has made the immediate laying of keels in a dozen ships possible. But it is true that the labour on which everything depends is apparently divided upon the question of getting to work. We see some unions signing the necessary agreement, and others hesitating. Certain labour leaders are enthusiastic, and others of equal influence are critical or hostile. It may not mean more than marking time, for Mr. Hughes has not yet said that he cannot go on. We are waiting, indeed, for his statement as a supplement to Mr. Cook's, giving the details of the Government's arrangements for an immediate falling to, so that Australia shall have her dozen locally-built ships ready in the shortest possible time. This statement was promised by the Minister for the Navy a fortnight ago, and it still tarries. Meanwhile we come back to the point that if the people of Australia were so desperately in earnest that nothing would satisfy them except ships actually upon the stocks, the task of the politician who is so prone in these days to sympathise with Mr. Facing-both-ways would be immensely lightened—or rendered intolerably heavy. In the latter case it would be the outcome of an inability to satisfy the public; and men who could give results would take the places of those whose capacity for meeting an emergency was limited to more oratory. There is every reason why this universal cry for a speedy building of ships should arise in Australia. The position is becoming more and more critical. Our stocks of all kinds of food and raw material are accumulating. Even our flour cannot be got away.

The war directly will touch us in other ways. When the pressure increases, as it must do, there will be angry questionings and bitter denunciations. Then the Government, if a start is still delayed, may point to the unions; but assuredly the people will demand more than excuses. Somebody in authority will suffer, and in a desperate hurry it will be found that much is possible which before seemed absolutely hopeless. In fairness, however, it has to be admitted that both Great Britain and the United States have not done nearly as much as they expected they could do in the matter of shipbuilding. We have pointed out in previous articles, no doubt, that some satisfying results have been obtained—that the hulls of vessels started on the Pacific coast of America, probably ordered by Australia, have lately been launched in record time. In Great Britain, too, the work for the navy and the additions to the mercantile marine have been full of wonderful achievement. But the programmes arranged to overtake the losses caused by German submarines are hardly now beginning to bear their proper fruit. Even in the United States, where the American Federation of Labour led by Mr. Gompers, is doing yeoman service, and where labour as a whole is heartily sympathetic with Mr. Wilson in his challenge to Germany, it has not been easy to get going. What we have known of the evil activities of the I.W.W. in Australia has been small beside the mischief attempted on the other side of the Pacific. It has not been plain sailing by any means, nor have the main obstacles to progress been quite cleared away either in America or Great Britain. But the peoples there are behind the Government in prosecuting the war to the fullest possible limits. Here, as a Commonwealth, we seem to be watching and waiting with a curious irresponsibility, as though the war were too far away to concern anybody. And yet it is coming close to us. This, then, is the point—our very existence directly will depend upon our possessing ships to keep the currents of ordinary domestic life going. Self interest in its lowest and crudest form demands that ship-building should begin at once, and be continued at the highest pressure. Surely this is a matter of moment to all the industrial unions of the Commonwealth? If they cannot take the higher patriotic view and accept the Empire as the beginning and end of everything, they must see that wages, food, and all that makes life possible at the present moment, are in the balance. While they decide whether they will co-operate with the Federal Government in building ships things are going from bad to worse. There is no question in this of greasing the fat pig, of providing heavier profits for the capitalist shipbuilder. The Government proposes to make it a matter of State enterprise, under certain conditions required to secure continuity of work and speed in construction—both vital to our success in helping ourselves out of the ditch into which Germany's ruthless submarine campaign has thrown us. The Government spends its energy upon too many things. Let it concentrate on men for our Australian Imperial Force, and ships to take our abundant food and raw stuffs to a starving world, and they will do the best war work the emergency demands.

The appointment of Mr. T. B. Cooper as Under-Secretary for Public Works was confirmed at a meeting of the Executive Council yesterday. Mr. Cooper has acted as the Minister's secretary for some years.

At yesterday's meeting of the Executive Council the appointments of Messrs. E. J. Harrison, V. B. Cox, and E. H. Kelly as Clerks of Petty Sessions, at Narrandera, Bega, and Condobolin, respectively, were confirmed. Dr. G. R. F. Hall's appointment as honorary physician to the Lady Edeline Hospital for Babies was also confirmed.

BOYCOTTS OF RETAILERS.

DRASTIC FEDERAL POWERS.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

Regulations will probably be issued to-morrow to deal with the boycotting by wholesale merchants of retailers who do not comply with their conditions.

Several cases have been brought under the notice of the Federal Prices Commissioner, where retailers have been threatened that their supplies will be cut off if they did not increase the retail price to the public. Regulations under the War Precautions Act, giving the Prices Commissioner drastic powers with any attempts to boycott retailers were drafted some time ago, but they have not yet been gazetted.

The Prime Minister, Mr. Hughes, when questioned to-day, stated that he was under the impression the regulation had been approved by the Executive Council, but he would inquire into the position immediately.

WALSH ISLAND.

NEGOTIATIONS GOING ON.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

Finality has not yet been reached in the negotiations which are proceeding for the taking over by the Commonwealth of Walsh Island for shipbuilding purposes. The Prime Minister, Mr. Hughes, stated to-day that he had received a telegram from the Premier of New South Wales to the effect that the State Cabinet would consider the proposals made by the Commonwealth at a meeting to be held to-morrow. Mr. Hughes added that the Broken Hill Pty. Co. had intimated that it was not prepared to construct ships at Walsh Island.

STATE CABINET.

There were no fresh developments in connection with the troubles which have caused a stir in State politics this week. Yesterday both the Premier and the Minister for Lands were out of town. Mr. Holman and Mr. Ashford were away in the country together. They were not present at all in Parliament last night. There was no further meeting of the Cabinet, but there will be another meeting this week or early next week, when the principal business will be the formulation of a definite policy with regard to the flotation of local loans for the purpose of railway works.

It would be idle to deny that a crisis which was so narrowly averted has not yet been quite dismissed from the minds of Ministers. There is undoubtedly some soreness still lingering, but it is hoped that very soon now the Cabinet will resume the even tenor of its way. This desirable result will be greatly accelerated by the repudiation of any settled policy of building railway lines in the manner in which it was proposed to build the Henty-Billabong line. After this matter has been definitely decided by the Government, it is likely that a meeting of the National party will be convened, when the members of that party will be given a full and frank statement of the matters which have provoked so much discussion of late.

IMPERIAL SERVICE CLUB.

It is claimed for the Imperial Service Club, which will be officially opened by his Excellency the Governor (Sir Walter Davidson, K.C.M.G.) on Wednesday next, at 4 p.m., in the presence of a representative gathering, that it is the only institution of its kind in Australia.

Its membership is restricted to all officers of the naval and military forces who have been on active service. Other officers, prevented for various reasons from possessing that qualification, may become honorary members with all privileges. The club occupies the whole of the second floor of Penzance-chambers, Elizabeth-street. About it there is just that atmosphere of homeliness and comfort that should make it a pleasant rendezvous for those for whom it has been established. Although necessarily more modest in proportions, it is planned along the lines of similar clubs in England. Its excellent appointments include a billiard-room, with provision for two billiard tables, one of which is already installed, a smoking and reading lounge, splendidly fitted, and offering a wide range of current reading matter; a dining-room, and other up-to-date club appurtenances. It is understood that the opening ceremony will mark the first of the new Governor's public engagements in this State. His Excellency will be received by a full guard of honour, representative of naval and military units. Permission has been granted for all officers present at the function to wear uniform.

The fact that the club, now only in its swaddling clothes, has already a membership of 200 augurs well for its success. Lieut. Roscoe J. Collins undertook, in an honorary capacity, the lay-out of the club, and the task has been carried out with a refinement of taste that does him credit. Major Alexander Hay has expressed his tangible support of the movement by sending along £100. The decorative effects include paintings in oil by Mr. Harry J. Weston, who has ornamented one room with two little scenes illustrative of naval and military activities in the war. Flying aloft, outside the club, is a Union Jack, which has seen active service abroad with the Royal Australian Navy.

The officers' ward of the Randwick Hospital witnessed the genesis of the club on July 6, 1917. An organising board of directors was subsequently appointed as follows:—Chairman, Lieut.-Col. R. H. Owen, C.M.G.; vice-chairmen, Lieut.-Commander R. S. Lambton, V.D., R.A.N.B.; Lieut.-Col. W. R. Fethers, D.S.O.; Staff-Surgeon A. Brennand, R.A.N., Major H. L. Bruce, M.C., and Lieut. Roscoe J. Collins, with Lieut. G. H. Wilson as secretary. The successful formation of the club is due largely to the honorary solicitor Lieut.-Commander Lambton, and Lieut. Collins.

IN PALESTINE.

WITH THE LIGHT HORSE.

A grazier in the Yass district, who has spent two years with the Light Horse in Palestine, writing to Mr. and Mrs. John B. Donkin, of Lake Cowal station, and of Sydney, under date December 4, says:—

"We are still in the front line doing practically infantry work, but expect to be relieved in a few days. We hear the Turks are practically abandoning the Mesopotamian front, and concentrating all available troops to stop our advance. Our latest captures include men from new divisions just sent down. Altogether we have taken 960 prisoners, 13 guns, and 150 transport waggons. It is a big lot for one regiment, and I believe far more than any other regiment has taken. By taking Beersheba the left flank of the Turks was left more or less exposed. This hurried their withdrawal.

"Gaza was subjected to three days and nights' continuous bombardment, warships co-operating, and the place became untenable. The Turks had no option but to retreat. The plan of attack was very skilfully laid, and, I believe, carried out to the letter. Our advance was so rapid I believe we were two days in advance of the plans arranged. The horses stood the strain wonderfully, at times they were 50 hours without water, and very little feed. We captured a certain amount, which kept us going.

"The Turks are now recovering from the shock, and have been reinforced with new divisions. I don't think there will be much doing for a time. Although the Turks had to retreat very rapidly, and lost almost all their transport, it was not a rout, and we had some very severe fighting. They fought an excellent rearguard action for days."

SCOTTISH WOMEN'S WAR HOSPITALS.

The above fund now stands at £8113, the following being the latest amounts received to date:—Kiama Red Cross Society, £5/5/; Public School, Bellingen, £2/7/6.

Contributions should be addressed to the hon. treasurers, Messrs. J. Russell French and H. H. Massie, 89 Phillip-street, Sydney.

NEWCASTLE, Wednesday.

A local committee has been formed to assist in raising money for the Scottish Women's War Hospitals. The Mayor of Newcastle (Alderman Kilgour) was appointed president, Mr. W. Scott, treasurer, and Mrs. J. B. Brown, secretary. Mr. C. N. Button, organising secretary of the movement, gave an interesting address in the Newcastle Council Chambers on Thursday last, and at the close, 25 guineas were given by Scott's, Ltd., and five guineas by Mrs. J. Brown.

PETER DAWSON ENLISTS.

BRISBANE, Wednesday.

Peter Dawson, the baritone, this afternoon enlisted in the A.I.F. He will fulfil his Brisbane and Melbourne engagements and then go into camp at Enoggera.

TRADE ORGANISATION.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

Speedy action has been taken to give effect to the suggestion of the Prime Minister, Mr. Hughes, that a conference representative of business and industrial interests, should meet to consider his scheme for the organisation of trade and industry. A large number of organisations have written, expressing a desire to participate in some such scheme as outlined by Mr. Hughes, and a conference has been called for to-morrow fortnight in Melbourne.

WAR PRISONERS IN TURKEY.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

The Minister for Defence, Senator Pearce, yesterday made a statement regarding the inability of Mr. Sherrie, of Sydney, to obtain information respecting his son, who is a prisoner of war in Turkey. Senator Pearce said: The British Government is devoting most serious attention to the problem of relief for such prisoners, and is making every effort to secure some amelioration of their lot. This Government is kept informed of the progress of the British Government's negotiations, but it is apparent that great difficulties are being experienced, especially in the matters of exchanging or obtaining any definite assurances from the Turkish authorities. I realise that this is very little comfort to Mr. Sherrie, but unfortunately the position is as stated, and no special representations from us can possibly increase the efforts which are now being made in this connection by the Imperial War Cabinet, which will, it is hoped, lead to satisfactory arrangements being made.

TAUPIRI STRIKE OVER.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Wednesday.

Work has been resumed at Taupiri colliery, Huntly, the flooding of the area, which the men declared dangerous, having been completed.

SHIPBUILDING.

RAISING QUIBBLING OBJECTIONS.

"A SINISTER INFLUENCE."

Mr. Donald Black, secretary to the Electrical Trades Union, said yesterday that he fully endorsed the statement by the Minister for the Navy, which appeared in the "Herald," that there had been no real change of attitude on the part of the Government, or of the conditions which had been made since the big conferences, which were held in Melbourne last year. It was a mistake, however, to assume that any of the unions which had accepted the shipbuilding proposals had so far rejected the agreement which was now being submitted to them to be signed. Up to the present, notwithstanding the pessimistic forebodings, only a district branch of one of the unions, which had several branches in this State, had announced its refusal to sign the agreement. It was, however, painfully apparent that some executive members of the unions, which had accepted the scheme, still persisted in their hostility to the proposal, and having failed to secure its rejection on the merits of the scheme, were now attacking the form of the agreement which had been submitted by the Federal Government.

Mr. Black said that he was of the opinion that the whole of the unions which had already accepted the shipbuilding proposals would sign the agreement readily enough, but some sinister influence appeared to be at work, raising all matters of apprehension as to the bona-fides of the Government, and the actual obligations of unionists individually and collectively under what they persistently termed the "new" agreement. Having failed to block the acceptance of the scheme by the majority of the unions, they were now doing their utmost to delay matters by the adoption of methods which had been much in evidence in the councils of Labour, both in Melbourne and Sydney, during the last few weeks. During the recent referendum Labour demanded that Australia should assist the Empire and the Allies by sending food instead of men. That was Labour's alternative to the Federal Government's conscription proposals. "In conclusion," said Mr. Black, "we are entitled now to demand that our colleagues in the Labour movement, who were so insistent on the necessity of sending food, shall now make good by doing their utmost to secure the co-operation of unionism in building ships without further delay."

NEWCASTLE ENGINEERS APPROVE.

Mr. J. M'Lachlan, a Victorian delegate of the Australasian Society of Engineers, addressed a meeting of the Newcastle branch of the society in the Trades Hall, on the question of ship-building. Victorian members were, he said, quite satisfied that the conditions offered by the Federal Government were absolutely fair in every respect. He would go further, and say that several of the clauses, such as those dealing with tribunals, were the fairest ever offered to organised labour. After a five weeks' tour through Tasmania he had found that the members of all trades were of the same opinion as the Victorian society. The opposition in this State and in Victoria by some organisations was a matter of selfishness, especially with the Amalgamated Society of Engineers, which, he declared, was at the bottom of all the scheming. Evidently they objected to all the organisations having an equal say and an equal vote in settling all disputes and demarcation questions. The Amalgamated Society resented that, of course, for it appeared that unless they could control the industry themselves they were not prepared to help to establish anything that was for the welfare of the workers or the country. It seemed to him that instead of trying to foster new industries in this country their policy now, as in years past, was nothing more nor less than of trying to keep any industries from being established in Australia. They, as Australians and unionists, regard that as contemptible and selfish. He hoped that all unionists in Newcastle would loyally support the unions that had accepted the scheme, and rally round the standard, so as to establish in Australia one of the greatest industries any country could have.

A motion was carried endorsing the proposal of the Federal Government to establish the shipbuilding industry on national lines, with national ownership, and hoping that the Federal Government would be successful in securing control of Walsh Island. The branch unanimously decided to accept the agreement as brought back by the delegates to the recent conference.

APPLICATION BY MECHANICS.

Mr. J. M'Lachlan, of the Victorian branch of the Australasian Society of Engineers, who has been on a visit to New South Wales in connection with the Government's shipbuilding proposals, said yesterday that Mr. Bryant, secretary to the New South Wales branch, was meeting with very satisfactory results with regard to the applications by mechanics who were prepared to work under the scheme.

PROGRESSIVE CARPENTERS.

At a meeting of the federal executive of the Progressive Carpenters' Union it was reported that all the branches through the Commonwealth had accepted the shipbuilding proposals. The executive instructed its officers to sign the agreement.

BUTTER PRICES.

INTERSTATE INQUIRY.

Mr. A. S. Mackenzie, general secretary of the Primary Producers' Union, continued his evidence before the Chief Interstate Commissioner (Mr. A. B. Piddington) yesterday in the inquiry into the prices of foodstuffs.

Before evidence was resumed the Commissioner said he had learned since the previous day's adjournment that the People's Food Protection Association had been notified of the inquiry, and was coming here. He would, for the present, allow all these bodies to be represented here, but on Friday morning would decide what should be done about representation. At the same time he desired to suggest that where several bodies having similar interests were present they should have one representative between them.

Mr. Mackenzie submitted a statement, placed before the Commissioner on the previous evening, showing the working of typical farms. Approximately the minimum number of cows, it said, that was required on a dairy farm was 60, the area of a farm in a good dairying district, such as the Richmond, was 100 acres, and the number of milkers employed was two. The cost per year in wages was set down at £286, rent was placed at £125, depreciation on a herd of 60 cows was set down at 10 per cent. on pre-drought prices, leaving a balance of £29 as a return to the farmer on a total of £500 received from the butter factory. The average net return per cow, the witness said, would be about £8 a year on 60 cows. This, allowing for 10 cows being dry at a time, left 50 cows in milk, and the average return would then be about £10 a cow. The amount of cream necessary to bring a return of £500 from the factory depended upon the price of butter. In October, 1916, the price of best butter was fixed at 149/4 a cwt. The price of second-grade butter was fixed at 140/; it should be at least 144/8.

Mr. Martin McIlrath, of McIlrath's, Limited, said that out of all the butter sold in his establishments 10 per cent. or 15 per cent. was first-grade, the rest was choicest. He paid the same price for first-grade butter as for choicest.

To Mr. New, for the Retail Grocers' Association, the witness said the turnover of butter was 10 or 15 per cent. of the whole. The percentage of expense in handling butter was above the profits. The retail selling price should be high enough to cover the cost of boxes and cartage.

Mr. H. E. Davis, manager of the grocery department, Anthony Hordern and Sons, Limited, said the provision section of the business was being carried on now at a slight loss, but he was not asking for an increase in the price of butter, because competition would not allow him to charge it.

Frederic Charles Hickling, manager for Foggitt, Jones, and Co., of Brisbane, bacon manufacturers, said he made 5 per cent. on the Brisbane consignments, including cartage inwards, and with that commission the business would not pay. Outside that he bought other goods and sold them.

James Brown Craig, a director of Prescott, Limited, dairy produce selling agents, Sussex-street, said the Imperial Government paid a higher price for butter than the local proclaimed price, but the charges attendant upon the sale at this end practically brought the price down to the proclaimed price.

The commission adjourned until this morning.

REPATRIATION.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

One of the schemes contemplated by the Department of Repatriation is the utilisation as far as possible of forestry as a reserve source of employment for returned soldiers. The Minister (Senator Millen) anticipates that a certain proportion will find in this industry a field for permanent employment. A conference, at which New South Wales, Victoria, and Queensland were represented by their chief forestry officers, recently discussed the question, and made several recommendations, which, with slight modifications, Senator Millen expects will shortly be given effect to.

The senator is seeking the co-operation of the States interested upon the following financial considerations:—

That, having in view the probable inefficiency, relatively, of the labour of returned soldiers, the Commonwealth should provide 25 per cent. of the wages for the first twelve months; after that date the proportion to be reconsidered in the light of the experience gained.

That advances shall be made to the State Governments at the rate which the money costs.

Victoria is prepared to increase her nurseries and plantations, and can employ 80 men by March 1 if the scheme be adopted. A minimum of 150 and a maximum of 300 men can be employed in the planting season from May to October. New South Wales, it is estimated, can employ a minimum of 200 men during 1918, and Queensland can employ 75 men. The question of employing men in the Federal Capital territory is receiving the attention of the Minister of Home and Territories.

VOCATIONAL TRAINING.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

In connection with the proposed utilisation of the resources of the technical schools and colleges of the different States for the training of returned soldiers, a conference of technical experts recently convened by the Minister for Repatriation to consider the various aspects of vocational training has submitted the following recommendations:—

(1) The courses should be designed so as to enable men to be put into positions as wage earners at a minimum standard of capacity with as little delay as possible.

(2) Special attention will have to be given to practical operations, in order to secure as much skill as possible in the quickest time; and only such instruction in principles should be given as will enable that end to be reached.

(3) The instruction in the practical work should have the widest possible range within the limits of a necessarily short course.

(4) That the training of men who had had experience as skilled workmen prior to enlistment should, if possible, be based on their previous knowledge, and they should be prepared to take higher branches of their work, which may require less physical effort, or which may better suit their disability.

The conference expressed the opinion that teachers who had some kind of disablement themselves would be the best possible instructors.

LORD MAYOR'S FUND.

APPEAL TO ALL SPORTSMEN.

The appeal which is being made by the committee of the Lord Mayor's Patriotic Fund for £150,000 is being directed, by special circular, to all the sports clubs and associations in New South Wales. Agricultural societies, social clubs, and labour unions are being approached in a similar manner.

A general meeting of the staff of Messrs. Dalgety and Co., Ltd., was held recently during luncheon hour, and in spite of the fact that the employees of this establishment have been contributing regularly for years to various war funds, it was agreed to make a collection, and committees were elected to pass subscription lists through the various departments.

Similar meetings of the staffs of other large city establishments are being arranged.

The Fund Committee has received the following letter from Mr. H. Y. Braddon:—

"The Lord Mayor's Patriotic Fund is deserving of the fullest support. It is controlled by men whose names are a guarantee of sound and business-like administration. At the commencement of the war the magnificent sum of over £200,000 was generously subscribed by the public, and, as the whole of this amount was not immediately required, the committee wisely placed £100,000 on deposit at call, which earned for the fund a considerable sum in interest.

"The committee entrusted with the disposition of that original £200,000 has given good account of its stewardship. This money is being disbursed at the rate of over £12,000 per month for the purposes for which it was subscribed, and the committee should therefore be able to look with confidence to the public for further support.

"Additional funds are now needed for the work which inevitably lies ahead, and the appeal should be irresistible. We dare not drop for a moment the duty of assisting as may seem necessary the dependents of our brave lads at the front."

These new rates show a considerable reduction on the previous quotations, and are most significant, inasmuch as they afford proof that in the opinion of the underwriters, at all events, the menace of submarine and raider is now not so serious as it has been.

A DOUBLE BAY RESIDENCE

SOLD FOR £17,600.

The residence, Redleaf, Double Bay, came under the hammer in the rooms of Messrs. Hardie and Gorman Proprietary, Ltd., yesterday, and, after spirited competition, was sold for £17,600. The purchaser was Mr. R. M. Pitt (Pitt, Son, and Badgery). This property is situated on the north side of New South Head-road, between the residences of Messrs. J. S. Brunton and Cecil Moulder, and is close to Cranbrook House and grounds. There are about 15 rooms in Redleaf, and the grounds comprise an area of over two and a quarter acres, with a water frontage. The bidding started at £14,000, and ran up quickly to £16,000. The offers were then confined to two bidders, both of whom were anxious to secure the property, and the bids of £100 came freely, until £17,600 was reached, at which figure the property was knocked down.

STRIKERS' PLEA REFUSED.

PERTH, Wednesday.

In connection with the wheat lumpers' strike a deputation from the A.W.U. to-day asked Mr. Baxter, Hon. Minister controlling the wheat scheme, to allow the strikers at the various wheat depots to go back to work. The Minister replied that as the time given the men to resume operations had expired he must refuse the request.

THE FIGHTING PADRE.

(BY A. J. B.)

Chaplain-Major W. M'Kenzie, M.C., the Salvation Army padre, returned to Sydney this week, after an absence of more than three years with the Australian Imperial Force.

He sailed from Australia as chaplain to the First Australian Brigade, performed wonderful work in that capacity, was awarded the Military Cross for gallant work on Gallipoli Peninsula, and, later on, was promoted to the rank of major as a reward for two years' continuous service with the A.I.F.

The great secret of his success with the forces is his knowledge of men. When he joined up he had met all classes, and nobody was too "far gone" for him. He took a special interest in men who for various reasons had been placed in the compound or military gaols. He was always out to meet them and give them a helping hand. A man on being released in Egypt after serving a sentence which he thought should never have been awarded him said, "That's the end of me. I'll never do another day's soldiering." But he had reckoned without the padre, who took him in hand, made him an advance of cash, handed him a writing pad and a packet of cigarettes. "What could a chap do with such a man?" he said later the same day. "I'll give the game another fly." He did, and to-day is a lieutenant in the same unit. To a man who was using horrible language outside a dugout one day the padre said, "It is a confession on a man's part to swear—a confession that he has a very poor vocabulary." The man thought over this, and reduced his flow considerably, till at last he could do without expletives altogether.

Like the majority of Scots, he is fond of singing, and at any hour of the day, and under all sorts of conditions, he thought nothing of starting a concert. Possessed of cast-iron physical powers, he never knew as Gallipoli or in France how tired the majority became, and his sprightly appearance used to put men to shame. They would brace themselves up and make another big effort when they thought they were done. One night in a drenching storm of rain he carried bombs miles across duck boards and quagmires. Nobody could live with him, and he had several times to stop and wait for the party he was assisting. He was a man of magnetic force, and did not know his true worth. Some men called him "Madcap Mac."

An Australian Brigadier-General (at that time major) said of Chaplain M'Kenzie on Gallipoli: "He is the best worker, organiser, and friend the men have in a country like this. At Lone Pine last week he was worth another battalion to us."

The men of the First Brigade swear that he led the brigade at Lone Pine, waving an entrenching tool, and shouting at them in broad Scotch accents. "I could not tell what he was saying," said one yesterday. "He was going faster than any one of us, and yelling at the top of his voice. When we took the place our great concern was for the safety of Mac. At last we found him. He was carrying wounded men by the score to places of safety. At night we found him in charge of a ration party that had strayed into the neighbourhood of the Turkish trenches. He is the finest man I ever set eyes upon."

An example of his organising abilities was seen aboard a transport, which conveyed our troops from Lemnos to Alexandria immediately after the transfer of Australian troops from Gallipoli to Egypt. The men sat about the ship and looked very glum. Nobody was pleased that the transfer had taken place—more especially those men whose brothers lay there. All over the ship there was an atmosphere of depression. Men trooped down to meals and returned to the decks to sit and mope. Suddenly a cry of "Are we downhearted?" gave the men a start, and looking up at the promenade deck they saw Chaplain M'Kenzie. "No!" came the rejoinder from a thousand throats. "Then let us sing," he said. Before any man had time to volunteer the padre was beating the rail of the ship with his huge fist, and had the whole of the troops singing "Australia will be There." A tremendous change came over the men. Thoughts of fresh triumphs elsewhere banished memories of Gallipoli, and a first-rate concert followed.

CITY COUNCIL'S COAL.

MINE PURCHASE DROPPED.

Alderman Gilpin yesterday afternoon presided at a special meeting of the electric lighting committee. Five tenders for the supply of 12 months' coal were opened and referred to the departmental officers for report.

When the acquisition of a coal property was reached, the town clerk read a report which had been sent in by the city treasurer, Mr. Solomon. In this statement the city treasurer, while reminding aldermen of the great difficulty in raising money at a reasonable rate of interest, pointed out that the proposed purchase of a coal mine would run the City Council into an immediate capital expenditure of something like £200,000. The council, it was stated, was already seeking State and Federal authority to raise £500,000 in loans for the purposes of the electric lighting undertaking.

Alderman Sir Allen Taylor, in opening the discussion on the offer of the Balmain Colliery Company to sell for £200,000, expressed the hope that the City Council would be guided by the expert opinion of Mr. John Brown. The letter which Mr. Brown had written to the "Herald" furnished the best possible reasons why the proposed purchase of the Balmain Colliery should be dropped.

Alderman M'Elhone said that Mr. John Brown's opinion, which had cost the council nothing, would save them from rushing into a huge expenditure and possible heavy loss.

Alderman Milner Stephen said that the proposal might be worth considering on a £100,000 instead of a £200,000 basis.

Alderman Gilpin remarked that the council would be foolish to turn the proposal down without full and serious consideration.

It was resolved that "the offer of the colliery be not entertained."

DRINK AND THE SOLDIER.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

The select committee of the Senate which is inquiring into the drink traffic in its relation to the troops, yesterday made available a further instalment of the evidence which was given in camera before it last week.

Rev. T. S. B. Woodful, chaplain, said that liquor used to come into the show grounds camp at Ascot Vale in milk cans, and at other times fishing lines were used to get it over the fence. Evidence of drinking had not been so pronounced since six o'clock closing came into force. Before then drinking had proved harmful to the discipline and the efficiency of the forces. Through it some had deserted; some had broken down in health, and others had been dismissed from the forces. The witness said that he was a strong advocate of prohibition.

Michael Gubbens Roche, senior inspector of liquor for the Board of Health and Customs, said that sly grog shows were now more numerous than ever. He would imprison both the vendors of liquor in such places and the habitues, and he would treat the premises just as if a case of smallpox or bubonic plague were discovered in them. He had seen soldiers who had been supplied with pinky or lunatic soup in shops in Melbourne, and were at the mercy of the harpies who ran these places. It was believed that there were from 80 to 100 grog shops in Carlton, Fitzroy, and Collingwood, and he heard that the proprietors sometimes made £40 on a Saturday afternoon and Sunday.

Captain C. R. W. Brewis, R.N., Naval Transport Officer in Melbourne, said that in the early days of the war, when there was no restriction on licensed houses, he had seen officers as well as men embarking in a state of intoxication. He had seen whole crews of transports absolutely incapacitated through drink.

Dr. William Brooker, vice-commanding officer at the Caulfield Hospital, said he was in favour of complete prohibition during the currency of the war. For a short time after six o'clock closing came into force there was a decided improvement among the men in the Caulfield Hospital, but things were now worse than before six o'clock closing became law. Prior to early closing, beer was the chief drink, but now it was whisky which was introduced into the hospital by visitors, who brought flat flasks. Women were the worst offenders in this respect.

SICK; NOT INSANE.

BROKEN HILL, Wednesday.

A man who was arrested yesterday afternoon and brought before the police court on a charge of insanity was found to be seriously ill from pneumonia. The charge of insanity was withdrawn, and the man ordered to be at once taken to the hospital for treatment.

SOLDIERS' FATHERS.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

An inaugural meeting of the Sailors and Soldiers Fathers' Association was held in the Town Hall last night. The objects of the association were stated to be to watch and forward in every way possible the interests of those who have been on active service. The membership already numbers 400.

BRITAIN'S DUTY.

KING'S SPEECH.

OPENING OF PARLIAMENT

CRITICAL STAGE OF WAR.

LONDON, Feb. 13.

The King opened Parliament accompanied by the Queen, and attended by the Prince of Wales. Australians, New Zealanders, and other overseas troops furnished a mounted escort. The route was lined by enthusiastic crowds. The Royal party passed through the Royal Gallery, where the oversea wounded were accommodated.

The Marquis of Lincolnshire (Lord Great Chamberlain) addressed the men. He said he was commanded by the King to give the brave oversea soldiers a royal welcome, and to express his Majesty's warm and grateful appreciation of their gallantry and devotion in the field. "After the conclusion of a victorious peace the King and Queen wish you a safe and happy return to the great Dominions of which they are so proud, and you love so well," he said.

His Majesty in the course of his speech declared it to be our duty to prosecute the war with all vigour and confidence in our ultimate triumph. The struggle, he added, had reached a critical stage, one demanding our united energies and resources.

"The German Government," his Majesty went on, "has ignored our just demands to make restitution for wrongs committed, and to furnish guarantees against their unprovoked repetition. Until recognition is offered of the only principles on which an honourable peace can be concluded it is our duty to prosecute the war with all vigour. I am full of confidence that the British forces and those of our faithful Allies will continue to display heroic courage, and the people at home will show the unselfish devotion which has frustrated many of the designs of our enemies, and will ensure ultimate triumph for our righteous cause. I have summoned the Dominions' representatives for a further session of the Imperial War Cabinet for advice on questions affecting the common interests of the Empire."

In moving the adoption of the Address-in-Reply, Brigadier-General Lowther (Unionist member for North Westmoreland) expressed the army's deep appreciation of the King's frequent visits to the front and his Majesty's concern for everything relating to the welfare of the troops. (Cheers.)

Lieutenant Shaw (Liberal member for Kilmarnock Burghs) seconded the motion.

WESTERN FRONT.

ENEMY REPULSED.

LONDON, Feb. 13.

A later French communique states that there have been reconnoitring raids by both sides. The communique also speaks of successful French raids on the outskirts of Bouconville, north of the Ailette, and also in the Woevre region, and of the failure of German attempts between Bezonvaux and Bois-des-Fosses, and also in the Champagne, Woevre, and Vosges regions.

ESCAPE FROM GERMANY.

TWO AUSTRALIANS.

The Australians, Lance-corporal Pitts and Private Choate, who arrived in London several days ago after escaping from Germany, had many thrilling experiences.

Pitts said that Choate was responsible for the arrangements for the escape. Choate, who had been sentenced to two years imprisonment, studied German in order to travel without being suspected. He made earlier unsuccessful attempts to get away, for which he was punished.

"Many of those in camp," Pitts went on, "knew of our intention to make another attempt, but guarded the secret carefully. Choate raffled an old fiddle at the camp, thereby raising money to pay the expenses. It was impossible to wear camp clothes without being detected. Therefore we secured the baggiest military trousers, took out the stripes from the sides, and when sewn up they looked like ordinary workmen's trousers. We removed the distinguishing marks on the tunics. We grew moustaches in the German fashion, dodged the sentries at night time, and got clear of the camp. Choate's knowledge of German was most useful. Travelling was difficult, but various devices allayed suspicion. We feigned sleep when closely watched.

"Choate's disguise was perfect. He addressed me in colloquial German, to which I nodded or responded in monosyllables. We brought a little food from the camp, and therefore it was unnecessary to visit restaurants, where the absence of bread and other cards would have promptly led to detection. When we finally reached Holland we noticed a policeman watching suspiciously. Choate asked him the way to the station. The policeman sternly asked, "Who are you?" Choate replied, "A Belgian workman." The policeman said, "Where are you going?" Choate replied, "Going home." Choate's frankness disarmed the policeman, who indicated the direction in which the station was.

THE ITALIANS.

GERMAN ADVANCE CHECKED.

An Italian official message states: Our artillery decimated large forces advanced by the enemy on the southern slopes of Sassorosso, and eastward of the Val Frenzela, preventing the development of any important action.

AMERICA'S ATTITUDE.

PRESS SUPPORT PRESIDENT.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.

The New York "Times" says that President Wilson's address should convince the German people that military autocracy is the sole obstacle to peace.

The New York "Herald" writes: Unless the Central Powers accept the road to peace which President Wilson has outlined we will continue the war at whatever cost.

The "Tribune" expresses the opinion that such a public discussion of war aims signalises the end of secret diplomacy.

Newspapers all over the country laud the moral grandeur, consummate skill, and unanswerable logic of the President's address.

Arrangements are complete for making British residents in the United States subject to the draft.

A Washington report says that a depot has been established for the reception of Germans taken prisoner by the Americans.

A Washington message states that a bill has been introduced into the Senate, providing for permanent universal military training.

ARABS CAPTURE TURKS.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.

Official advices state that Arabs, operating between Mecca and Medina, destroyed 3000 rails on the Hejaz railway, capturing numerous Turks.

WAR NOTES.

ARABS AND THE HEDJAZ RAILWAY.

Official advices announce that the Arabs have still further damaged the Hedjaz railway. The previous successful raids on this line occurred away up on the northern half of the railway in the region of Maan, south-south-east of the Dead Sea. The destruction of 3000 rails mentioned in this morning's message is said to have been carried out by Arabs operating between Mecca and Medina, which would represent the most southerly section of the line. The Hedjaz railway was originally constructed by the Turkish Government for the Pilgrim traffic between Damascus and Mecca, and for the purposes of military transport, the route covering a distance of 1097 miles. It was at first carried only as far as Medina, 820 miles from Damascus, and, although it was extended towards Mecca subsequently, it had not been completed nor prolonged to the Red Sea as was originally proposed, before the war. The line was opened for traffic as far as Medina in 1908, and, in the course of an article published in the "Geographical Journal" in December of the same year, Lieutenant-Colonel F. R. Maunsell referred to it as follows:—"Geographically, the line has provided a means of travel in a country with a fascination of scenery quite peculiar to itself, and unlike any other part of the world. Instead of traversing populous countries and great cities, it seems to delight in passing through immense solitudes—through a country peopled mainly by the spirits of the Arabian Nights, where little surprise would be occasioned in finding a roc's egg in some inhospitable rocky valley, or in seeing a genie floating in a stream of thin vapour out of a magic bottle."

HOW THE LINE WAS CONSTRUCTED.

With such a railway it is not surprising to hear that "on leaving Maan . . . all hope of dividend is left behind." The scarcity of water along the route is one of the main difficulties to be contended with. "The permanent way," adds the writer quoted above, "has been laid throughout by Turkish soldiers; but the station buildings, all of very solid masonry, as well as bridges and culverts, of which there is a great number, have been constructed mostly by Italian workmen, with some Greeks and Montenegrins. As many as three or four hundred Italian workmen were employed at one time on the works near Tebuk, and so little did fanaticism come into play that they built the fine new mosque at Tebuk. Subsequently they instructed some Turkish engineers, who continued the work from El Ula to the holy city itself. It is difficult to think of this railway becoming a great highway or developing any great trade with Central Arabia, as the section from Maan to Medina traverses an unproductive country, without possibility of development, and the interior of Arabia has no surplus products to dispose of. . . The general height above sea level is about 2300ft, although at Maan it rises to 3525ft, and at Dar-el-Hamra, the watershed of the Tebuk depression and the Wadi Hamd, it attains 4200ft, which is the highest point." The rolling stock of the Hedjaz railway was originally obtained principally from Belgium, with the exception of the engines, which were made by a German firm. The rails were supplied by the American Steel Trust, by a French firm domiciled in Russia, and by the firm of Cockerill in Belgium. The engineers in charge of sections were of various nationalities, including Frenchmen, Poles, and Hungarian; while Meissner Pasha, an able German engineer, was mainly responsible for the general supervision of the work of construction.

GERMANY AND THE DIVINE WILL.

To the average Briton the German Emperor's frequent appeals to the Deity are suggestive of a hollow mockery, if not of outright blasphemy. In his latest speech at Hamburg he is reported to have said that "the violent powers of Heaven must assist us," while his other frequent references to the Almighty in the same speech are only to be compared with his own similar boastful utterances in the past. This claim that the German armies have been specially chosen by the Creator to carry out His will is so ironical as to give rise to something approaching mirth in the mind of the unbiassed observer of the progress of the world war. It seems almost incredible that the modern Attila should be able to attempt to persuade his people that they are the instrument of a Divine will. That the violators of Belgium, the murderers of unarmed citizens, the representatives of modern piracy, the perpetrators of poisoned gas and flame attacks, and the destroyers of peaceful villages, of unfortified towns, of religious and historic monuments, could be regarded as the elect of a God of Love seems too ludicrous to appeal seriously even to the vanity of the Teuton. The fact that the German Emperor's ridiculous remarks are accepted in all seriousness by his subjects, however, shows the vast difference between the British and German types of intellect, and brings home to us the logic of the remarks contained in a leading article published in the "New York Times" over eighteen months ago, on the occasion of a previous claim by the German Emperor to Divine appointment. "The crushing of Germany by the Allies," said the writer, "means the destruction of a vain, shameful belief obsessing the Germans, that they are fulfilling their destiny under Divine will, a belief that knows no compassion, discards treaty obligations, that would trample the rights of their neighbours in an effort to extend a power which is repugnant to the rest of humanity. The Kaiser's delusion affects all Germany, and must be dispelled."

AN EXAMPLE IN PATRIOTISM.

In the present great war patriotic actions have been too numerous to chronicle. Sacrifices made on the field are, of course, the greatest of all. Compared with the final sacrifice most other patriotic actions must be regarded as minor affairs. Occasionally, however, we hear of a particular patriotic action which is worthy of special mention, even although it does not entail that greatest of sacrifices which is being freely made every day. The inventor of the Lewis gun has just set an example in patriotism which all will admire. The following extract from "The New Republic" magazine, which arrived by the last American mail, speaks for itself:—"About the merits of the Lewis gun," says the magazine, "the average American citizen can know little. But he knows much about the merits of Colonel Lewis, if he has read the reports of the hearing before the Senate Military Affairs Committee on December 22. One thing the senatorial investigators were trying to get light on was the motive that prompted Colonel Lewis to renounce in favour of the Government his claims to royalty, not on contracts sought and therefore hypothetical assets, but on contracts actually awarded and under execution. Why should Colonel Lewis want to present to the Government 2,500,000 dollars that belonged to him by far clearer title of service than most sums paid out by the Government belong to their claimants? Especially when the official representatives of the Government had met his offers of gratuitous services with what looked like calculated scorn? 'Well,' said Colonel Lewis, 'that is rather a difficult question to answer. I suppose it is a psychological affair.' Pressed further by Senator M'Kellar's inquiry whether, having been an officer of the Government, he did not feel that he ought to help the Government, Colonel Lewis replied: 'Absolutely. I got my education at Government expense. I have been persecuted by the Government, and I want to pay it back in good money—give good money in return for it. But there is a far deeper question. I have only two sons. Both of them are at the front. They are with General Pershing. I am a father as you men here are fathers. You will see your sons go over before this trouble is over. We are not fighting the battle of the Allies: we are fighting the battle of the United States.'"

BOY'S CLOTHING FOUND.

NEWCASTLE, Wednesday.

Clothing belonging to a boy, consisting of shirt, trousers, and panama hat, were found last night near the steps of the ocean baths. The police had found no trace of the owner at a late hour last night.

STATE PARLIAMENT.

ARBITRATION BILL DEBATED.

Members of the Legislative Assembly had an unique experience yesterday afternoon. Less than five minutes were occupied with questions without notice. Not within the memory of the oldest member has this measure of respite been given to Ministers. As a rule there is considerable difficulty in confining this portion of the day's proceedings within the time limit of 30 minutes allowed under the standing orders. It so happened that the Premier, the Minister for Works, and the Minister for Lands were not in the Chamber when the House met, and while members were waiting with their questions in readiness for them to arrive, the Speaker, no one rising to ask questions, proceeded with the reading of the general business paper. At 25 minutes to 5 o'clock the House was listening to the second reading speech of the leader of the Opposition on the new Arbitration Bill.

UNION REGISTRATIONS.

Replying to Mr. M'Kell, who asked under what power the Industrial Registrar was refusing to register the rules of certain trades unions, the Minister for Labour and Industry, Mr. Beeby, said:—"The Court of Industrial Arbitration, in a judgment given on December 20, 1917, in the matter of applications by the United Crown and Railway Service Association and other trade unions for registration as industrial unions, expressly ordered that applicant unions were granted registration upon condition that the rules of the union contained (inter alia) a prohibition against affiliation or co-operation with political bodies or any political activity as a union."

WATERSIDE WORKERS' BUREAU.

Answering Mr. Cochrane, who complained that the engagement of waterside workers at the shipping companies' bureau was opposed to the law, the same Minister said that in the absence of a grant of preference by the Court to any particular body, employers may select without restraint such labour as they deem most suitable to their requirements.

QUANTITY OF WHEAT POOLED.

In response to inquiries made by Mr. Manning, the Minister for Agriculture, Mr. Grahame, said that the total quantity of wheat pooled in the 1915-16 season was 15,528,000 bags, of this 9,726,000 bags had been shipped to date, 9,751,000 bags sold locally, the balance 51,000 bags being held by millers. The growers had been paid, approximately, 3/11½ per bushel, net, at country stations for f.a.q. wheat. The total net payments to date amounted to £11,408,000, but definite information as to when the final payment would be made was not available. In the 1916-17 season 11,793,000 bags were pooled, of which 167,000 bags had been shipped to date, 2,126,000 bags being sold locally, and 717,000 bags were held by millers; 3/ per bushel net for f.a.q. wheat had been paid to growers, the total payment being £4,614,000 net. Of the 1917-18 season's wheat, 1,635,000 bags had been received in the pool to date.

NO VICTIMISATION TRIBUNAL.

The Premier informed Mr. Quirk that it was not proposed to set up a special tribunal to deal with alleged cases of victimisation in the railway and tramway services.

MEAT BOARD CHAIRMAN.

The Chief Secretary, Mr. Fuller, told Mr. Lang that it was not the intention of the Government to dispense with the services of the chairman of the Meat Board.

ARBITRATION BILL.

The leader of the Opposition, Mr. John Storey, resumed the debate on the second reading of the Industrial Arbitration (Amendment) Bill. Events of such far-reaching character had taken place in industrial matters, he said, that the Minister was entitled to pardon for the change that the bill showed had taken place in his views.

Mr. Edden: Mine are changed, too.

Mr. Storey: And so are mine. The Minister has always been opposed to strikes, and for that reason had devoted a good deal of time to evolving a scheme that would make them as few and as far between as was humanly possible. The bill could be regarded as an honest attempt on the part of the Minister to give relief, said Mr. Storey; but it would be almost impossible for the average worker to understand just where he stood if it became law in its present form. The Minister was endeavouring to achieve something in which his predecessor had failed, but he (Mr. Storey) would endeavour to show that the proposals would not be effective, though the Minister had had the assistance of Mr. Holme, the Under-Secretary, who was one of the smartest men in industrial affairs in this country, and the benefit of past experience to guide him. The bill could have no other effect than making confusion worse confounded. There were some strange ideas in the bill. The Board of Trade was, amongst other matters, to take over the apprenticeship system. The proposal to extend the age of the expiry of apprenticeship to 22 would be a doubtful experiment.

Mr. Beeby: There are a number of boys who cannot become apprentices under present conditions.

Mr. Storey said that certainly scholastic reasons intervened. The Railway Commissioners were the worst employers in the State, instead of being the best, in regard to apprentices. Unless a lad applied at 14 years of age he had no chance of being apprenticed in any of the railway departments. He (Mr. Storey) never remembered a case in which it was said that five years constituted too long a period for apprenticeship. To permit of a varied system of apprentices would open the way to all sorts of difficulties, and would serve to reduce the high standard of mechanics. The present well-ordered system of apprenticeship should continue. The powers sought to be given to the board to determine the period of apprenticeship opened the door to a very serious position. The Minister's proposals could only end in chaos. The employer, for instance, was not going to accept responsibility for the education of apprentices further than the provision already laid down. The proposal enabling the board to determine whether piecework should be worked was a Utopian idea, and would not work out in practice.

Mr. Storey said he disagreed with conciliation committees. It had been tried so often, and had failed. The idea of introducing in the seventeenth or eighteenth year of arbitration what had been a failure in the first year—conciliation—was, to his mind, an impossible thing, and he could not conceive where it emanated from. He did not believe people would come together, where they widely disagreed, and discuss matters unless they were brought together by compulsion. To his mind the underlying object of the bill was to separate the whole of the Public Service from the unions outside. That might be desirable from one standpoint; but members must see that, without the men were going to remain in the Government workshops or else outside all their lives, there must be some sort of co-ordination to enable them to transfer from one place to another. The Government said to its employees: "You must not strike against the Government, because we are the Government," yet it gave employees the right to strike against a private employer.

Mr. Bavin: Do you say the law should be allowed to remain as it is?

Mr. Storey: So far as practicable the law should be left as it is. Continuing, Mr. Storey said he was against the bill because he could not see how it would benefit the great masses. If the bill became law he could conceive of nothing but disaster for the working class.

Mr. Storey said, in answer to an interjection by the Minister, that he could not say a word in favour of the bill except as regards one section—that providing for labour exchanges—which was harmless, but at the same time, might be very useful. The insurance against unemployment, as proposed, was positively ridiculous. It meant that if the workers created a fund, the Government would add, in bonuses and subsidies, an amount equal to 5 per cent. of the wages involved. He was sure such a scheme would never become operative. How could the workers provide such a fund for the man who was out of work? The proposals for the creation of a special court for those engaged in what were defined as public services were very unsatisfactory. Many, indeed, were complaining that, though excluded now from the advantages of industrial legislation, they would not gain any benefit from this measure. He thought the bill was deliberately designed to curtail the powers of the trade unions, to assist the employing classes, and to give such powers to the Government as would make unionism, as now understood, a mere cypher so far as effectiveness and power were concerned.

Mr. Edden said he did not expect that any good would come of the bill. Its only redeeming provision, as far as he could see, was that relating to the secret ballot.

Mr. Hickey said the Board of Trade was a misnomer. It would be better, he said, to call it a Board of Industry. While it might be necessary to make the term of apprenticeship for some trades five years, it would be wrong to lay down a cast-iron principle for all trades. It was not necessary for some of the lads to be apprenticed for five years to manipulate some of the machines in the railway workshops.

Mr. M. Burke said the industrial arbitration now offered them by the Government was not acceptable to the great body of workers. So long as they went on fixing the prices of labour, and ignoring the prices of commodities on which labour lived, they would be wallowing in the mire. The bill introduced the piecework system. It permitted butty-gang system—the most objectionable system in the world.

Mr. Osborne said the bill was the most contentious piece of legislation introduced in the last five years. He urged that steps should be taken either to consolidate all industrial matters in the Federal Parliament, or, in the alternative, that the State alone should deal with all such matters within its boundaries. The bill was opening the door to allowing employers to obtain 12 months' service from an employee at a reduced wage. The suggestion that the Press should be "gagged" in regard to publishing its opinion concerning strikes was ridiculous.

Mr. Beeby: That applies only to illegal strikes.

Mr. Osborne said he had never seen such panic legislation. Instead of being legislation for the 20th century it was symbolic of the 10th century.

Mr. Hoskins described the bill as an honest attempt "to do something," and as a safeguard that would save industrial organisations, and the community generally thousands of pounds.

Mr. Dooley said the bill would do more to destroy harmonious relations between employer and employee than any other piece of legislation ever introduced into Australia. It would kill the great principle of collective bargaining which the workers had wrung from the employers.

The debate was adjourned until this afternoon. The House rose at 10.35 p.m.

ALDERMAN RESIGNS.

REFUSED TO SIT WITH MAYOR

GUNNEDAH, Wednesday.

Alderman Westerweller has been elected Mayor of Gunnedah by five votes to four, defeating Alderman Porter.

Alderman Porter said he could not and would not sit with Alderman Westerweller as Mayor, as the council should not be represented by a person of a nationality with which our country was at war. In electing him, the council was not doing its duty to the Empire and Gunnedah. Alderman Porter did not oppose the man, but his nationality, and thought Alderman Westerweller ill-advised to allow himself to be nominated while the present war cloud was hanging over us. Alderman Porter resigned from the council.

Aldermen Storey and Davidson opposed Alderman Westerweller's election on the same grounds.

Alderman Westerweller is a native of Gunnedah, and has been in business here for many years. He has served for several years in the council. His son has fought at the front, and was wounded. Alderman Westerweller expressed regret, and said the ratepayers had confidence in him when they elected him second on the poll.

BATTLE OF MESSINES.

While the lecture given in the Highland Society's headquarters recently by Brigadier-General A. Jobson, D.S.O., on the battle of Messines, was almost wholly of a technical character—it was under the auspices of the United Service Institute—it nevertheless afforded even the lay members of the interested audience an illuminating insight into phases of that historic engagement. The District Commandant (Brigadier-General Lee) presided. Over 50 slides, including photographs by German prisoners, accompanied the lecture. As showing the activities of the Intelligence Corps, Brigadier-General Jobson showed maps illustrating the disposition of German armies, and the German order of battle, including the location of Prince Rupprecht's group of armies, the Crown Prince's, and others at the head of the enemy forces. The lecturer instanced the immense preparations necessary for what he termed "a set stunt like this," the objectives to be reached on successive days, the main artillery programme, and so on.

Speaking of the enemy's fresh divisions and "used" divisions, he said information disclosed the fact that in five days the former had been reduced by seven and the latter had been increased by eight. So effective was the barrage that some of our men said they were satisfied with the machine guns, the wall of machine gun fire giving the men splendid confidence. The men went over in good style. Some took out cigarettes, and others started to sing "Australia Will Be There." Everything went off to clockwork, except, he believed, that a battalion belonging to one division did not, through some inadvertence, fill its allotted place, and the result was a gap. Things were anyhow for a bit. The next morning General Holmes, with his two brigadiers, went to the main line to inquire into the matter. Someone told the general how risky his venture was, but he turned the remark off with some jocular comment, and satisfied himself, as was his custom. The lecturer instanced an area of about 5000 yards taken by British troops between 3 o'clock in the morning and 6 o'clock at night, and the full extent of the gains 11 days after the commencement of the battle.

General Haig, he said, had reckoned that if everything went off as arranged within a month he would be satisfied, but, as a matter of fact, the programme was concluded within ten or eleven days. "On a front of nine miles," remarked the lecturer, "three million shells were fired in ten days. Prisoners told us that the opinion had been expressed that the British could not possibly pass 'No man's land,' because there were so many German guns behind. As a matter of fact, the shelling was insignificant compared with ours on the first day."

Turning to the mining operations, Brigadier-General Jobson, speaking of the damage done by the mines—19 in all—said he believed, as evidence of the co-ordination of plans, that there was not more than a difference of three seconds between the first mine and the last mine."

Speaking of one of the curious effects of war, the lecturer said that sound was an extraordinary thing, and that one could be quite close to a heavy bombardment and not hear it. "One day," he said, "we never heard a shell fired by the enemy. The next day I observed to one of the men that they had had a nice quiet day the previous day. 'We had two heavy bombardments within half an hour of each other,' was his retort." "And we were only about 1500 yards from that," added the lecturer.

TWO MEN STABBED.

NEWCASTLE, Wednesday.

A quarrel amongst three men on board a steamer lying in the basin, at Carrington, this afternoon, ended in two men, Jack French, a fireman, and Walter Neal, a loyalist trimmer, being taken to the Newcastle Hospital. During the affray French received wounds in the back and arm from a penknife, and Neal was injured in the head and right arm.

MOSMAN MYSTERY SOLVED.

After dragging for a day and a half Sergeant Beatty, of the Water Police, discovered the body of Salvatore Ellul, 25, a Maltese, in Mosman Bay yesterday morning.

At about 2 a.m. on February 12 Mr. Colley, a boatshed proprietor, and also several residents of Mosman heard screams in the bay. Mr. Colley rowed to the spot in a boat, and when within a few yards from where the sounds proceeded saw a man disappear. It was thought at first that deceased had been taken by a shark, but when discovered the body bore no marks of violence. Ellul, who was lately employed at a boarding house, before leaving had packed his portmanteau and other goods beneath his bedclothes, probably so as to make it appear that he was in bed.

LATE WAR NEWS.

PREMIER'S DEFENCE.

VERSAILLES COUNCIL.

MILITARY DECISIONS INVOLVED.

EXPOSURE OF ENEMY'S PEACE TALK.

LONDON, Feb. 13.

Speaking in the House of Commons to-day, the Premier, Mr. Lloyd George, said that when Count Czernin came to the real substance of the Allies' demands he was adamant. Count Czernin had put Mesopotamia and Palestine in exactly the same position as Belgium, and as regards Italy he simply stated that certain offers were made to Italy before the war but were now withdrawn. So far as the Slavonic population of Austria was concerned Count Czernin made the bald statement that it was none of the Allies business to inquire. Indeed, Count Czernin resolutely refused to discuss any terms which might be regarded as possible peace terms. As regarded Count Hertling the Premier said it was difficult to believe that some of his demands were serious, especially regarding Britain surrendering her coaling stations. It was no use crying peace when there was no peace. And the Premier confessed that an examination of Count Czernin's and Count Hertling's speeches was profoundly disappointing to those really desiring peace. The Germans' action towards Russia proved that the declaration about "no annexations" was meaningless. No satisfactory answer had been given as regarded Belgium or Poland, nor to France's legitimate claims for the restoration of her lost provinces. Not a word was said about men of the Italian race and tongue under the Austrian yoke.

He regretted most profoundly that he found nothing in those speeches which could possibly be regarded as proof that the Central Empires were prepared for peace on terms which could be regarded as just and reasonable. The Government had not receded in the least from its statement of the war aims which they still regarded as embodying the aims and the ideals for which we were fighting. There was every indication that the whole nation accepted that statement as fair, just, and moderate.

Until there was some better proof than had been provided in the speeches to which he had referred, that the Central Powers were prepared to consider our war aims it would be our regrettable duty to go on and make the preparations which would be necessary in order to establish international right in the world. (Cheers.)

Regarding the Inter-Allied War Council he could not give the information for which Mr. Asquith had asked. It was useless to give partial information. He admitted that he had stated in November that the council was not intended to have executive functions, but since then Russia had gone out of the war, and a very considerable number of German divisions had been brought to the western front from the east. The situation had become very much more menacing, and the Allies had met at Versailles in order to consider the best methods of meeting that menace in 1918.

The Allies had had an overwhelming superiority of troops on the Western front, but gradually, even rapidly, the superiority had diminished, especially during the last few weeks. Despite an undertaking not to remove her troops from the Eastern to the Western front, Germany had removed troops as rapidly as her railway arrangements allowed. That contract made during the armistice had to be borne in mind when we were discussing the terms of peace—(cheers)—because it had a real bearing upon guarantees (Cheers.) Till this year there was no attack which the Germans could bring either against the British or against the French armies, which could not, in the main, be dealt with by the reserves of each individual army.

WESTERN FRONT.

ARTILLERY ACTIVITY.

LONDON, Feb. 13.

A French communique states: There has been reciprocal artillery activity in the Champagne, on the right bank of the Meuse, and in the Vosges. We downed four German aeroplanes and dropped 9800 kilograms of bombs on enemy depots and railway stations, a fire breaking out at one of the latter.

AUSTRALIAN RAID.

FIERCE FIGHT AT WARNETON

Mr. Philip Gibbs says that the Australian raid near Warneton was a fierce affair. The bombardment which followed violent resistless fighting in the trenches and dugouts was responsible for the heaviest casualties. The Germans holding the sector were met by the Australians with a sweeping burst of machine-gun fire. Though the Australians had some casualties they were nothing like those inflicted on the enemy. This body-grabbing business is keeping both sides alert all day and all night long. The Germans are nervous, and lavishly using rockets with sudden spasms of machine guns whenever the sentries see visions in No Man's Land.

CAPTURED AEROPLANES.

Amsterdam advices state that two German aeroplanes flying near Ghent encountered a small Allied squadron and were surrounded. They discontinued the fight, surrendered, and flew southward as prisoners with their captors.

DISTINGUISHED CONDUCT MEDAL.

In a letter concerning the Distinguished Conduct Medal, Warrant-Officer C. F. Jones, of the instruction staff, states that both pensions and gratuities are allowable, and are granted, in connection with this decoration. The sum of £7500 is distributed annually for this purpose, and of late years has been considerably increased. It takes the form of a pension of 6d per day in the case of a soldier serving or discharged, or may be given in the form of a gratuity on discharge to the extent of £20. This grant is also made to a non-commissioned officer or man receiving a commission while holding the Distinguished Conduct Medal. The pension is only granted to ranks of corporal and above. To the writer's knowledge there are in Australia at the present time three ex-non-commissioned officers who receive a pension of 6d per day for "distinguished and gallant conduct in the field." The letters D.C.M. are not used to indicate the possession of the Distinguished Conduct Medal, as the regulation dealing with it requires that the words shall not be abbreviated or placed after one's name. The letters D.C.M. officially stand for "district court-martial."

KNOCKED DOWN BY MOTOR CAR

While crossing Oxford-street last night a married woman, Mrs. Fanny Watson Whayman (48), was knocked down by a passing motor-car and seriously injured. At the time of the accident—7.45 p.m.—she had just left her residence in 78 Oxford-street, in company with her husband and daughter. She was admitted to St. Vincent's Hospital suffering from a fractured skull and internal injuries.

ROOSEVELT WORSE.

Colonel Roosevelt has suffered a slight relapse.

LODGE DOCTORS.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

There has been no change in the situation arising out of the dispute between the doctors and the Friendly Societies. The council of the British Medical Association met on Monday night, and it was considered advisable to await the course of action which the Premier intends to take arising from the Premier's inquiries into the position in N.S.Wales. Mr. S. Mauger (President of the Association of Friendly Societies) has written to the Premier stating that the circumstances in N.S.W. are totally different to those existing in Victoria. The Friendly Societies in N.S.W. work under a different Act, and are specially subsidised by the Government for a comprehensive subvention scheme. Further, he understood that the societies are impelled to yield to the doctors demands through force of circumstances and lack of organisation.

DEBATE IN PARLIAMENT.

The adjournment of the Legislative Assembly was moved by Mr. Lemmon to-day in order to permit members to discuss the dispute between the doctors and the lodges. Mr. Lemmon said that 15,300 members of the societies were concerned in the dispute. He hoped that the Government and the House would take action on their behalf. The matter was above party issues, and was of national importance.

The Premier said he had attempted to bring the parties together, and at one stage he had hopes of settlement, but the refractory character of certain points brought forward by the British Medical Association prevented them reaching anything like a decision. He agreed with members that in such a dispute they should depend on the principle of arbitration, but they must remember that the House had never in its career provided for arbitration in a dispute of that nature. The Government itself had absolutely no coercive power, and if the House by legislation provided coercively for arbitration by bringing in a compulsory law it would do something unparalleled in the history of legislation of this State. The Premier said the Crown Solicitor had just informed him that the request of the friendly societies that Parliament should by legislation compel compliance with the decision to make the doctors resort to arbitration would be unprecedented for Victoria, and he could find no record of any parallel elsewhere. The Premier said the Government would carefully reconsider the whole question and make another attempt, if at all possible, to bring the parties together. If he failed he would report the matter to the House.

RETURNING SOLDIERS.

The military authorities announced yesterday that the following soldiers, in addition to those already published, would return to Australia to-day:—Captain Roberts, 7th L.H., and Pte. Downes, 2nd L.H.

QUEENSLAND ELECTIONS.

Mr. Fihelly, Minister in charge of the electoral department, stated to-day that provision had been made by regulation for every member of the forces who had attained the age of 21 years to exercise the right of voting at the coming State elections. The regulations provide that each member of the forces who is entitled to vote may complete a nomination form, nominating some person in Australia to exercise the right of voting on his behalf. Assistant returning officers will be appointed at London, Cairo, and other places where necessary. For the convenience of soldiers in Australia, but outside of Queensland, polling booths will be established at various centres in the other States.

SWIMMING CHAMPIONSHIPS.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

The Australian ladies' championship carnivals were concluded at the City Baths tonight. The principal events were the 100 yards (free style) and 100 yards breast-stroke ladies' championships of Australia. In the free style races Miss Wylie (N.S.W.) secured the lead at 66 yards, closely followed by Miss E. Venning (Qld.), and Miss Beaurepaire (Vic.). From this out a great race ensued. Miss Durack, swimming at a great pace, soon had the race in hand, and, drawing away from her opponents 15 yards from the post, just won in 1m 12 2-5s. Miss Wylie and Miss Venning fought out an exciting race for second place, and made a dead heat. Miss Beaurepaire was third. In the 100 yards breast stroke championship Miss Wylie (N.S.W.) took the lead at the outset, and won easily in 1m 30s. Miss E. Venning (Q.) was a short distance away second, and Miss Lawson (Vic.) was third.

ALDERMAN OBJECTS TO CAUCUS.

LITHGOW, Wednesday.

At the council meeting the election of committees caused a breeze which ended in the resignation of Alderman G. A. Langlands. The elections were most expeditious, four committees being respectively proposed in quick succession by Aldermen Walker, Delahunty, Harrison, and Mostyn, four Labour aldermen. By this arrangement Alderman Langlands was deposed from the finance committee, and placed on the water and sewerage committee. He made no demur at the time, but immediately the last committee was appointed he protested that the whole thing had been fixed up by the caucus, handed in his resignation, and left the room.

PROMINENT SPORTSMAN'S DEATH.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Mr. J. Widdis died this morning in a private hospital. He was part owner with Mr. J. Mills of Shepherd King, winner of the Caulfield Cup in 1916, and his wife, Mrs. E. A. Widdis, is the owner of Patrobas, winner of the Victorian Derby and Melbourne Cup in 1915. Mr. Widdis was the owner also of station properties in New South Wales and Victoria.

WHEAT-LUMPERS' STRIKE.

PERTH, Wednesday.

A fresh development in connection with the wheat-lumpers' strike occurred yesterday morning, when 50 men employed in constructing a siding and erecting wheat sheds, ceased work concurrently with farmers and national workers starting wheat-handling at the various depots.

DEATH OF REV. CHARLES WILES.

BRISBANE, Wednesday.

The Rev. Charles Wiles, the oldest minister in the Methodist Conference of Queensland, has died at Maryborough. Deceased had not been in active work for some time owing to ill-health.

DISLOYAL STATEMENTS.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

In the City Court to-day Guido Barrachi, a law student, was charged under the War Precautions Act with having made statements on the Yarra bank on February 10 likely to prejudice recruiting, and on the same date with having attempted to cause disaffection among the civilian population. Barrachi was fined £50 on each of the charges, and, in addition, was ordered to enter into his own bond of £200 not to offend again. Mr. E. N. Moore, in fining Barrachi, said that if it was not that he thought Barrachi was sadly lacking in mentality he would think it his duty to send him to gaol. In defence, Barrachi stated that his speech was a reply to the "Antis' Creed," a pamphlet issued during the referendum. He had nothing but animosity to the German ruling classes, and was not a pro-German.

GERMANS IN PUBLIC EMPLOY.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

At a conference of chairmen and secretaries of the recruiting committees in Melbourne held in the Town Hall to-day, Alderman Cabena, chairman of the Melbourne District Recruiting Committee, said that many obstacles were standing in the way of recruiting. Many Germans were still in Government positions, even in the Defence Department. There were too many young men in uniform claiming to be indispensable to the carrying on of Government work in Australia. There were many speakers at the meeting, and eventually a further meeting was fixed for next Wednesday.

LOAN MONEY ECONOMIES.

Mr. Fitzpatrick, Assistant-Treasurer, states that the loan expenditure for the month of January was £305,549, as against £528,220 for the corresponding month last year—a decrease of £226,671. For the seven months, July to January, inclusive, a total of £2,549,780 had been spent, as against £4,667,477 for the corresponding period of the previous year—a decrease of £2,117,697. Taking these figures as a basis, the total loan money expenditure for the current financial year would probably be about £4,271,000, or well within the estimate of £5,000,000. From the point of view of much-needed economy, added the Minister, these figures were very satisfactory.

DAYLIGHT ROBBERY.

NOTES SEIZED AT G.P.O.

A daylight robbery was carried out yesterday at the G.P.O.

Shortly after 9 a.m. one of the clerks at the stamp counter engaged in counting money prior to commencing business placed a roll of notes totalling £27 on the counter. He then looked into the till with the object of counting some cash, when a man who was standing amongst a crowd of people waiting to be served with stamps seized the notes and bolted.

The clerk, followed by a crowd of people, gave chase to the thief, who, however, was quick of foot, and had secured a good start. The thief raced up Pitt-street, turned and ran along King-street to George-street, where he boarded a western-bound tram. His pursuers arrived just too late to get on to the same car, and on reaching Market-street the thief dropped off and entered Lassetter's store, where he mingled with the crowd inside and probably escaped by one of the many exits.

The robbery is similar to that of Tuesday, when £150 was stolen from the E.S. and A. Bank.

EXPLOSION AT BALMAIN.

NEWSAGENT INJURED.

As a result of an explosion, followed by a fire, at Balmain early yesterday morning, John Thompson, 39, a newsagent, was admitted to the Balmain Hospital suffering from burns and shock.

Shortly after midnight on Tuesday Mr. Thompson, who resides on the business premises occupied by himself at 636 Darling-street, Balmain, was awakened by a noise. Suspecting the presence of burglars, he went downstairs, and, opening the shop door, struck a match. Apparently the gas in the shop had been turned on, for immediately an explosion occurred, setting the shop on fire. Suffering from burns and shock, Mr. Thompson struggled into Darling-street, where he was picked up and taken to the hospital.

Detachments of the Fire Brigade from Balmain, Rozelle, and Leichhardt arrived quickly, and, although the flames had secured too strong a hold to allow of firemen saving the stock, they managed to prevent the fire spreading to the adjoining premises. The next door shop, occupied by Mr. Mercer, a tailor, was slightly damaged by heat and water.

CADET OFFICERS' PAY.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

The Minister for Defence, Senator Pearce, stated yesterday that doubt has been raised in regard to the obligation of employers to pay senior cadet officers over 18 years of age when they attend drill during working hours. The object of the measure is quite clear in regard to the general obligation of employers, and I have issued instructions, said Senator Pearce, that any attempt to jeopardise the efficiency of senior cadet training in this important regard will be closely watched. I need hardly appeal at a time like this to the patriotism and good sense of employers merely to ensure that nothing should be permitted that would act to the prejudice of the administration of the Defence Act, as the officering of our senior cadets just now presents a very serious problem.

CASUALTIES.

An accident resulting in two men receiving injuries necessitating their removal to the hospital occurred on board the collier Malachite, lying alongside the North Sydney Gas Co.'s wharf, Neutral Bay, yesterday. A number of men were engaged aboard the collier rigging a shelter over the hold when the support on which they were standing gave way and precipitated them into the hold. Robert Edden, aged 62, a coal lumper, residing in 81 Donnelly-street, Balmain, and Harry Garrett, aged 24, a coal lumper, residing in William-street, North Sydney, were both conveyed by the Civil Ambulance to the North Sydney Hospital. Edden was admitted suffering from injuries to his right thigh and a scalp wound, and Garrett for a scalp wound.

BRISBANE.—John Jobbing and Andrew Arneston were severely burned this afternoon as a result of gas in a sewerage shaft on Breakfast Creek-road catching fire.

LADY EDELINE HOSPITAL.

At the Lady Edeline Babies' Home, Greycliffe, yesterday afternoon, the opening of a new convalescent ward, named after the late Mrs. Geo. Black, was formally celebrated by Mr. J. D. Fitzgerald, Minister of Health, who, in naming it the "Rosalind Black Ward," stated that the building, formerly a stable, had been converted to its present use at the suggestion of Mrs. Black when her husband was Minister of Health. The room, which has 19 cots, can be partitioned off into two rooms, and all the windows can be removed if wished, making it an openair apartment. The guests, who were received by the matron, Miss Mann, inspected the home, and were afterwards entertained at tea. Among those present were:—Mr. Geo. Black, M.L.C., Mrs. Smithers, Dr. and Mrs. Paton, Dr. and Mrs. Ludowici, Mr. and Mrs. Neely, Mr. and Mrs. Harkness, Mrs. Ogilvie, Miss Spencer.

AUSTRALIANS' LEAVE.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

The Minister for Defence, Senator Pearce, has arranged with General Birdwood to have the leave to England for members of the Australian Imperial force increased from 10 to 14 days, preference being given to those longest without leave, and each division receiving its proportion according to the tactical situation. Senator Pearce asked that special arrangements might be made for the men who left with the First Division; but General Birdwood points out that the reorganisation of this division in Egypt involved the distribution of those men equally between the First, Fourth, and Fifth Divisions. Under the arrangement now made by General Birdwood, the division out of the line of action receives the largest share of leave in turn, and during the winter months 12,000 men have had leave each month to England. This is quite apart from the eight days' Paris leave given to good-conduct men, which is not counted against leave to England.

BUSH FIRE.

CULCAIRN, Wednesday.

Tuesday was a record here for heat. Several fires broke out in the afternoon. One about six miles from Culcairn started in the back paddock of Matchett's, and extended, burning over 1000 acres of grass, and damaging fencing. The sheep were saved, and in one paddock fifty head of cattle and some young horses were liberated. The Culcairn bush fire brigade rendered good service, and what at one time looked like a serious conflagration, was got under about 3 o'clock this morning.

BANK CLERK'S LAPSE.

PERTH, Wednesday.

Reginald Le Page, security clerk in the Bank of New South Wales, to-day pleaded guilty, and was committed for trial, for having appropriated three sums aggregating £95, received on account of the payment of overdrafts.

Detective Condon said accused admitted having taken the money, which he said he had lost at horseracing.

A CHILD ON THE RAILWAY.

BRISBANE, Wednesday.

A telegram from Charleville states that when the mail train was near Morven to-day, travelling at the rate of 30 miles an hour, a child, three years of age, by some means fell out of the train. After the train was brought to a standstill the child was discovered making its way along the line apparently quite uninjured.

ORDER AGAINST AN ACTOR.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

At the St. Kilda Court yesterday Ernest William Gollmick, actor, better known by his stage name of Frank Grahame, a member of the "Rajah of Shivapore" Opera Company, was charged with having unlawfully deserted his children, Beryl and Carl Gollmick, on July 10, 1917. When the case was called on application was made for the withdrawal of the charge and the substitution of the non-indictable offence of having left his children without adequate means of support. The charge was altered accordingly. Gollmick was ordered to pay to the clerk of petty sessions 12s 6d per week for the support of each of his two children.

WAR ECONOMY.

For the purpose of considering ways and means of extending the war savings movement, a largely-attended conference of officers of war savings groups was held at the Chamber of Commerce.

The hon. director of the Australian war savings campaign, Mr. B. R. Gelling, in the course of an address, said that the thrift that was wanted was, first, the elimination of waste, and, second, cutting out needless expenditure—in a word, right spending. Within the metropolitan area about 900 war savings groups had been established, with about 20,000 members, the membership of the groups representing about 66 per cent. of the total number of employees in the establishments concerned. In the country there was much to be done, but already there were 173 groups, with a membership of over 7000. The movement had also been established in schools, with the co-operation of the Minister for Education, Mr. James. Up to the 2nd inst. £1,164,439 had been invested in war savings certificates, the amount in the Commonwealth being £4,082,540.

During a useful discussion a number of proposals were put forward. Amongst these was a suggestion that secretaries and others connected with the existing groups should canvass firms in their localities urging the establishment of new groups. It was stated that the Commonwealth authorities intended to use imitation tanks for the sale of bonds for the new war loan, on the same lines as real tanks were used in London; and it was suggested that they should be asked to sell war certificates also by this means. Another proposal which found considerable favour was that war-saving certificates should be given as prizes at sports meetings and in other competitions, also as birthday and other presents.

THE WEATHER.

Following the rapid pressure movements from west to east during the past few days, an important development has occurred which favours squally and strong winds from the east. The heat-wave conditions which were responsible for such high thermometer readings (reaching 112 degrees at Balranald and 115 at Menindie) have been practically dispersed, and now comparatively cool weather predominates.

At Sydney yesterday the southerly change was accompanied by rain, with squalls reaching a velocity of 32 miles per hour at 5.10 p.m. The rainfall in the city amounted to 30 points up to 9 p.m.

QUEENSLAND RAINS.

BRISBANE, Wednesday.

Further heavy rain has fallen in the northern part of Queensland during the 24 hours ended at 9 a.m. to-day. Among the falls were:—Cairns 862, Palmerville 519, Innisfail 498, Fairview 383, Walsh River 333, Ingham 312.

It is reported from Rockhampton that the Fitzroy River is now receding a little faster, and that the flood waters are getting back into the river channel proper. Portions of several streets are still submerged. Several sheds along the river bank suffered considerable damage, especially the Rockhampton Rowing Club's shed, and it is a wonder the whole structure was not carried away. Wharfs have also suffered damage. Western mails and passengers are still boated between Rockhampton and Gracemere.

GALE IN ADELAIDE.

ADELAIDE, Wednesday.

The wind last night was sufficiently strong in the metropolitan area to unroof houses and uproot trees. A gale blew at times at the rate of 100 miles an hour. This tornado followed upon extraordinary hot weather on Monday, when the shade temperature was 109.2. The roof of a new house in a southern suburb was deposited among the gum trees in a neighbouring paddock; a lad was blown right off his bicycle, and another cyclist was whirled round in a whirlwind. The Congregational Church at Kensington was partly unroofed, and many gardens and trees suffered considerable damage.

BALRANALD.—Tuesday was the hottest day of the season, registering 112. A cool change set in at night. The river is falling fast.

DEATH OF MR. W. A. ANDERSON

The sudden death on Friday of Mr. W. A. Anderson, at "Clovelly," Harriette-street, Neutral Bay, removed one of the best-known and respected figures in Sydney business and pastoral circles.

Born in Victoria in 1861, Mr. Anderson in 1875 joined the firm of White, Alford, and Co., Melbourne, agents for the New Zealand and Australian Land Co., Edinburgh. Upon White, Alford's business being absorbed by Dennys, Lascelles, Austin and Co., Melbourne, Mr. Anderson became office manager, and in 1908, when the New Zealand and Australian Land Co. established its own office in Sydney, he came to take charge of the office at No. 4 O'Connell-street.

Three sons have served in the war. One was killed at Bullecourt, another was recently wounded at Passchendaele, and the third is now a sergeant in charge of Commissary at Heytesbury Camp, Wiltshire.

The funeral took place at Gore Hill cemetery on Monday, the service being conducted by the Rev. R. H. Waugh. The relations present were Mr. Warren Anderson (son), Mr. Martin Anderson (brother), Mr. P. H. Morrison, Melbourne (brother-in-law), Messrs. W. B. Morrison and Speeding (cousins). Others present included Mr. Jas. Ashton, M.L.C., Messrs. McCall-McCowan, Hopkins, McLarty, Moffitt, and the office staff of the New Zealand and Australian Land Co., Anderson (Mayor, North Sydney), Bros (Macnemara and Smith), R. Pitt, R. Moggridge (Pitt, Son, and Badgery), Searight (Hain and Searight), Boulton (Harison, Jones, and Devlin) Bond (Australian Mercantile Land and Finance Co.), Lane (John Sanderson and Co), Shannon (Scottish Investment Co.) Moser (Schute, Bell, and Co.), Milne (Gilchrist, Watt, and Sanderson), Duguid, McDonald, Morgan, and Fielding, Ramsay (Boys' Club), Sergeant Christie, Harrison, E. De Gyulay, and Clews.

CLAIM FOR COMPENSATION.

NEWCASTLE, Wednesday.

At the Newcastle District Court to-day, before Judge Fitzhardinge, Harry Dews, senior, claimed £250 compensation from the Stockton Borehole Collieries, Ltd., for the loss of his son, Harry Dews, junior, who died as the result of injuries received at the company's colliery on July 17, 1917, whilst employed as a waggon-shifter. Mr. R. Cowan, instructed by Messrs. Braye and Cohen, appeared for the claimant; and Mr. W. Sparke, of Messrs. Sparke and Millard, for the defendants. The principal contention was as to the amount of compensation payable, and as to what deduction should be made for the maintenance of the deceased by his father. Claimant contended that compensation ought to be assessed for the three years on the rate of wages paid to the boy at the time of the occurrence, viz., 7/7 a day. For the respondents it was contended that as the boy had been employed for a greater period than three years, compensation should be based upon the amount of wages paid to the boy for the three years next preceding the date of the injury.

His Honor reserved judgment, and said that the case was a most important one to the coal-mining industry.

BOY BABIES IN WAR TIME.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

The question whether sex at birth varies during wartime has often been raised. It has been asserted, and indeed is generally believed, that boy babies preponderate in time of war, this being Nature's method of making good the wastage of life on the battlefield. According to Mr. G. H. Knibbs, Commonwealth Statistician, there are no grounds for such a theory. In appendix "A" to volume 1 of the "Census of the Commonwealth of Australia," Mr. Knibbs states that the masculinity at birth is about in the ratio of 105 or 106 males to 100 females. Existing statistics, Mr. Knibbs remarked, showed that the effect of war on masculinity was not discernible in France, for instance, during the period 1865 to 1876. The excess of males over females in each 10,000 births averaged only 24 for the first four years. It dropped to 23½ during 1870 and 1871, and averaged 24 for the period 1872 to 1876. There had not been the slightest sign of any increase as the result of the war. In investigating this question Mr. Knibbs found that there was a tendency for the masculinity at birth to be affected by the masculinity of the population.

DRAWING LOTS FOR A MAYORALTY

NEWCASTLE, Wednesday.

A special meeting of the Newcastle City Council was held to-night to elect a Mayor for the ensuing year. Two nominations were received, the sitting Mayor, Alderman C. Kilgour, nominated by Alderman Christie; and Alderman M. J. Moroney, by Alderman Pitts. Both nominees received five votes, and on drawing lots Alderman Kilgour was successful. The defeated candidate, Alderman Moroney, and other aldermen congratulated the Mayor upon entering his third term of office. It is worthy of note that this is the fourth occasion on which Alderman Moroney has drawn lots for mayoral election, and each time fortune was against him.

TRADES AND LABOUR.

COALMINERS' CLAIM FOR MINIMUM WAGE.

Mr. A. C. Willis, secretary to the Australasian Coal and Shale Employees' Federation, states that the federation has decided to approach the Federal Court of Arbitration and Conciliation with the object of filing a claim for the establishment of a weekly minimum wage for the members of the federation. "In some districts we are supposed to have a daily minimum," Mr. Willis said, "but since the resumption of work following upon the recent industrial upheaval, especially in the southern district of New South Wales, it has depended largely on the whims and caprices of the colliery managers as to whether they will pay the minimum rate. However, it is useless to have a daily minimum rate if a mine only works two or three days a week. Hence the federation believes that the request for the establishment of a weekly minimum at a reasonable figure is so obviously just that it should meet with very little opposition. I can produce a ticket from an employee working on the coal at the Richmond Main colliery. It shows that this man worked 10 shifts during a fortnight, and was paid at the rate of 7s 7d per shift."

PRINTING INDUSTRY EMPLOYEES.

At a meeting of the New South Wales branch of the Printing Industry Employees' Union of Australia the declaration of the ballot for the election of officers for the ensuing 12 months was made as follows:—President, Mr. S. J. Stanbridge; vice-presidents, Miss M. Shepherd (women and girls); Mr. L. W. Bullot (news), Mr. F. Cummings (jobbing); treasurer, Mr. T. J. M'Kenzie; Labour Council, Messrs. A. Watson, F. J. Donovan, R. Power; Political Labour League, Messrs. S. J. Stanbridge, T. J. M'Kenzie; Eight-hour Committee, Messrs. G. A. M'Grath, J. Bell; Trades Hall delegates, Messrs. S. J. Stanbridge, J. Bell; Workers' Educational Association, Mr. J. C. Stewart; trade representatives, Messrs. H. W. Cook, Weir, A. E. Holland, A. E. Rowe, W. A. Smith.

A photograph of the late Mr. J. W. Spicer was unveiled, to be hung in the board-room of the branch.

MEDICAL INSTITUTE.

At a well-attended meeting of representatives from the city and suburban friendly societies, medical institutes, and dispensaries, held in the Newtown Dispensary, an association was formed for the purpose of protecting the interests of these institutions, particularly in the matter of placing their claims before the Arbitration Courts. Mr. J. Farrington, of the Ashfield Dispensary, was elected president, and Mr. H. S. Davy, of the Hurstville Dispensary, secretary.

FEMALE PRINTING GIRLS' AWARD.

A new award governing the working conditions of females in the printing industry within the county of Cumberland and the police districts of Newcastle and Maitland covers for the first time bag and envelope workers. The rates for seniors are:—Quarter-binders engaged on work which exceeds 1½in in thickness of back and 108 superficial inches measured over length and breadth of either side, whether wired, sewn, stabbed, stapled, or otherwise held together, 37/ per week; where the work is less than the foregoing, 32/ per week; handsewers, 32/ per week; machine-sewers, letterpress and lithographic feeders, head packers, and embossers, 30/ per week; all other senior hands, 28/ per week. The rates for juniors start at 11/ for first six months, 13/6 second six months, 16/ third six month, 18/6 fourth six months, 21/6 third year, and 24/6 in the fourth year.

The award rates are payable from the 8th inst, and cover persons engaged in the industries of feeders, booksewers, folders, numberers, wirestitchers, perforators, staplers, gathering or collecting machinists, and all other females employed in or in connection with the printing or publishing industry, or in or in connection with the manufacture of paper bags and envelopes, and the gumming and packing of paper bags and envelopes.

RAILWAY APPEALS BOARD.

The New South Wales Tramway Union has decided to apply to the Supreme Court for a writ of mandamus to compel the Tramway Appeal Board to hear certain appeals.

Mr. Warton, secretary to the union, said yesterday that certain employees, who had been absent from duty before and during the strike period, had, in consequence, no break in their service. These men, having long service, were entitled to, and were promoted to, certain vacancies in higher grade positions. Subsequently they were disrated from such positions, owing to allegations that they were pro-strikers.

MALTESE AND A.W.U.

Mr. J. C. Bodkin, secretary to the Railway Workers' Industry branch of the A.W.U., said yesterday that he denied the allegations which he said had been made by Mr. Ball, Minister for Works, to the effect that the secretary to the Railway Workers' Union had made representations to the department that preference should be given to Maltese. No distinction had been made by the union in any respect regarding its members.

AFTER-CARE ASSOCIATION.

The annual meeting of the After-care Association was held in Stanway House yesterday, the president, Lady Cullen, presiding.

The annual report disclosed that the association still went on its quiet way, rejoicing in the good work accomplished, notwithstanding the troubled conditions of war time. The ostensible purpose of the association was to find employment for those recovered from mental sickness. Alcohol was the chief lion in the path, both directly and through heredity, and some of their best workers left only to return to the hospital, for this giant foe stood in brazen protection at every corner.

Lady Cullen said the year's work was very satisfactory, and the report was very encouraging for the work carried on. It pointed out more emphatically than ever that the work which Miss Paterson had taken up should be carried on. Later on, it would come to the understanding of those who had such matters in hand that this "after care" would have to be taken up in a large way. Personally, she was of the opinion that to further this good work there should be a sort of half-way house, where patients recovering would be able to convalesce. Those persons taken to positions had carried out their work well. Very few had to be brought back to the institution. In the future, Miss Paterson's name would be associated with this work in the same way as Miss Schardt's name was in regard to the incurables. Personally, she believed the institution to be one of the most happy homes anywhere. She hoped that the work commenced by Miss Paterson would be taken up by others in all the States of the Commonwealth. (Applause.)

Dr. M'Donall and Dr. Latham also spoke. The former stated that Victoria was following the example set by New South Wales.

The election of officers resulted:—President, Lady Cullen; vice-presidents, Dr. H. C. M'Donall and Mr. D. Fell; hon. treasurer, Mr. J. E. Paterson; executive committee, Mrs. Lockley Broughton, Miss Lester, Nurse Christie, Dr. R. A. Noble, Mr. J. E. Patterson, and Mr. F. C. Rooke; general committee, Mrs. H. C. M'Donall, Mrs. L. Broughton, Nurse Christie, Miss D. V. M'Callum, Miss Lester, Dr. Mary Booth, Dr. Chisholm Ross, Dr. O. Latham, Dr. R. A. Noble, Dr. Guy Menzies, and Messrs. S. B. Banfield, E. M. Betts, Frank Bamfield, F. C. Rooke, J. E. Paterson.

Miss E. D. Paterson was reappointed hon. consulting secretary and visitor, and Miss C. A. Baly organising secretary and visitor.

WAR WORKERS' GAZETTE.

The dual purpose of a comprehensive record of war work in New South Wales, especially that performed by women, and a valuable book of reference will be admirably served by the "War Workers' Gazette," which has been compiled for sale in aid of the funds of the War Chest. A glance at the publication suffices to show that an enormous amount of trouble has been taken in gathering and collating the large amount of information which it contains, being, as it is, not merely a record of activities in connection with the War Chest, but of all organised civilian war efforts in this State. As far as it has been possible to obtain them, full lists are published of the branches and individual workers of the War Chest Fund, the Battalion Comforts Funds, the Red Cross Society, and all other organisations, together with interesting descriptions of their objects and their accomplishments. A large amount of general information, such as the labours of Australian units, is also contained in the book. Copies are now obtainable at 215 George-street, at which address battalion and comforts funds are asked to call for their parcels. All orders up to date will be fulfilled at 1s, as promised, but in future the price will be 2s, or 2s 3d posted, all proceeds being handed to the War Chest Fund.

ENGINEERING FEDERATION.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

A conference to discuss the formation of an Australian engineering institution by the amalgamation or federation of the numerous societies now in existence throughout the Commonwealth was held yesterday. Mr. D. F. J. Harricks, President of the Engineering Association of N.S.W. was elected to the chair. About thirty delegates were present. It was decided to recommend the various societies to to elect representatives to form a provisional council to draft a constitution for submission to the societies.

Mr. Valder's offer to assist the local Agricultural Bureau in the forthcoming exhibition at Blacktown is greatly appreciated by all on the land here. The credit balance at the end of the year was £132, but with accounts to pay, the committee was compelled to make application for an advance of portion of its subsidy.

COOMA.—Another spell of warm weather has been experienced in the Cooma district. The stock inspector reports feed and water are plentiful on all holdings. The condition of the stock is fair to good, and improving. There is no outbreak of disease. Rabbits are decreasing on netted areas, but increasing on unenclosed country. The annual returns of stock to the end of December were 7203 horses, 29,973 cattle, 685,886 sheep, showing an increase in all sections over the previous year. GOULBURN.—An unusual case was heard at the Goulburn Small Debts Court, R. J. Tweedie suing Gordon Milson for £10, for alleged defamation. Plaintiff said he was part owner of Long Reins, a trotting horse, which competed at a trotting meeting; he drove the horse fairly, and ran about fifth or sixth. Defendant said to him, "You robbed me; you rooked me. I put £6 on your horse, and you pulled him up." Defendant pleaded not guilty, and justification for anything he might have said. GUNNEDAH.—The municipal council has decided to remodel and occupy their own buildings, and has let a contract for £1475. The sum of £1550 will be borrowed from a Sydney institution at 7 per cent., and it is proposed to clear off the debt in 12 years.

QUEENSLAND FLOODS.

ANOTHER FATALITY FEARED.

ROCKHAMPTON, Wednesday.

Judging from reports received by Inspector McGrath, it looks as if another fatality will have to be recorded, making seven deaths during the present flood. This morning Constable Collins, accompanied by a man named Stephen Hughes, set out from Yaamba to rescue a man named Bernard Linden, who had been up a tree three days and four nights, having been compelled to take refuge there owing to flood waters. Linden's rescue was safely effected, and a party took on board a dog and swag, which he had up the tree with him. After traversing some distance the boat crashed into a tree, and the occupants were precipitated into the water. Constable Collins managed to reach the tree, in which he took refuge. Hughes followed the boat down the river for some considerable distance, and managed to right it. Hughes brought the boat back and rescued Constable Collins from the tree. A diligent search was made for Linden, but they were unable to find him. When last seen he was swimming, but was 400 yards from the shore, and the rescue party believe he was drowned. Several other constables have been sent to join in the search.

PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION.

The first witness before the Public Service Commission on Tuesday was William A. Gullick, Government Printer, who, referring to the working of his establishment, said that as it was largely a trading or business concern it required treatment different from that of many other Government functions. One of the disadvantages of being a sub-depot of the Treasury was that it was a frequent cause of delay. He regarded the Government Printing Office building as very unsuitable, and, generally, as being out of date.

The Commissioner: Do you regard the building as dangerous in respect to fire?—Yes, one section particularly, owing to the inability to get the staff away rapidly in the event of emergencies. He added that among the main requirements were proper means of exit, a fire escape, and sanitary appliances. The lift accommodation was quite inadequate. His experience of the departmental board system was that it was a weak invention, because it weakened the power of anyone administering an establishment. Of all the Government Printers in Australia he felt that he had the least power of control over his staff, because of the peculiar procedure of the Public Service Board.

Robert Brown, an employee in the mechanical branch of the Government Printing Office, in comparing conditions there with those outside, said that the men in that branch were called upon to do the whole of the work in the engineering trade, and contended that, by way of comparison, the men were not paid in accordance with the nature of the work performed.

W. J. Mason, claiming 17 years' association with the reading staff of the Government Printing Office, and president of the Readers' Guild, voiced a comprehensive protest against the lowering of the readers' minimum salary to approximately the rate paid to compositors.

W. Livingstone, machinist in the Government Printing Office, urged that, in regard to the guarding of machinery, the regulations applying to factories and other establishments should apply also to the Government Printing Office. The lack of a system of apprenticeship in the machine branch was also referred to by witness.

The commission adjourned until a date to be announced. The Commissioner resumed his personal investigations yesterday.

AUSTRALIANS HONOURED.

Mr. W. G. M'Mullin, of Brooklyn, Upper Rouchel, has been notified that his son, Captain A. O. M'Mullin, has been awarded the Military Cross. A younger son, Captain Walter M'Mullin, who was killed in France, was also awarded this decoration.

For his gallantry at Polygon Wood on September 26, Lieutenant George Tufnell, whose wife and family reside in Craigend-street, Darlinghurst, has been awarded the Military Cross. He was previously an officer of the mercantile marine, in the service of the Newcastle and Hunter River Company, Burns, Philp, and Co., and the E. and A. Company, and obtained his first stripe at Pozieres. In a letter of congratulation to Lieut. Tufnell on the award of the Military Cross, General Birdwood says: "During the strong enemy counter-attack you led your reserve gun team through the heavy barrage, and reached the front line without a casualty. For three days you kept your gun in action, visiting each gun periodically, and encouraging the men, and your work in directing the fire and supervising the reconstruction of destroyed emplacements was of a very high order."

Mr. W. A. Oakley, of Bondi, has received news by cable that his nephew, Lieutenant Douglas Gordon Oakley, has been awarded the Military Cross, and has been promoted to the rank of captain. He enlisted at Sydney in the A.I.F. at the beginning of the war, and was among the first Australians to land on Gallipoli.

Mr. W. Hatherly, of Singleton, has received information that his younger brother, Lieutenant L. O. Hatherly, R.N.R., who has been engaged mine-sweeping in the North and White Seas since the beginning of the war, has been awarded the Croix de Guerre by the President of France, and has also been mentioned in despatches. In 1916 Lieutenant Hatherly was decorated by the Czar of Russia with the Order of St. Stanislaus.

News has been received by cable that Lieutenant Edmund Winter Cooke, of the South Wales Borderers, has been awarded the Military Cross. Lieutenant Cooke is the youngest son of Mr. H. P. Cooke, of Ardnaree, Young. He enlisted as a private in the First Australian Veterinary Unit in November, 1914; was granted a permanent commission in the British army in 1915; and served for three months at Cape Helles, and for nearly two years in France. Lieutenant Cooke was wounded on the second day of the Cambrai battle, and lay in "No Man's Land" in imminent danger from the Huns, but was rescued by a passing tank.

Lieutenant J. D. Westwood, son of Mr. J. Westwood, of Ramsey-street, Hornsby, has been awarded the Military Cross for conspicuous bravery in France. He was employed in the Moore-street office of the Government Savings Bank.

Mrs. McCulloch, of Hillcrest-avenue, Hurstville Grove, has been informed that her husband, Sergeant-major A. R. McCulloch, has been awarded the D.C.M.

AN ABSENT MINISTER.

The Rev. Thomas M'Vittie, minister of the Rozelle Presbyterian Church, has been on active service as a Presbyterian chaplain for over a year. The 12 months' leave granted by the presbytery and six weeks' grace have expired, and recently the congregation carried a motion that no extension of the leave be granted. The matter came before the Presbytery of Sydney. Dr. Brown, who represented the congregation, said the people had not been communicated with by Mr. M'Vittie in any way, and they felt strongly that no further leave should be granted. The Rozelle congregation was suffering in consequence of having no settled minister working amongst them. The presbytery decided to allow the documents relating to the matter to lie on the table for a month, and in the meantime get into touch with the absent minister.

WELCOME HOME.

A welcome home was given to Private R. Cherry, who has been on active service for two years, at the Manchester Unity Hall, Newtown. The Mayor of Marrickville (Alderman Ness) presided, and presented to Private Cherry a gold watch, suitably inscribed, and a gold ring, on behalf of his friends.

WAR CASUALTIES.

KILLED.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Ritchie, of Central-road, Miranda, and late of Bega, have received letters from France stating that their son, 2nd-Lieut. Eric C. H. Ritchie, was killed by a shell in France on September 20. He was 27 years of age, and was formerly in the service of the Bank of Australasia, Sydney. He took part in the landing at Gallipoli, and remained there until the evacuation, and later won his commission in France.

Mrs. T. Barlow, of South Yarra, Bourke-street, Waterloo, has received news that her second son, Corporal Harold Barlow, has been killed. He was previously reported wounded and missing. Corporal Barlow was well known in South Sydney football and cricket circles, and was in the employ of Messrs. Saxton and Binns for 11 years. He enlisted early in 1915.

DIED OF ILLNESS.

Mr. F. J. Fowler, of Barnstaple-road, Five Dock, has received notification that his son, Lance-corporal Darrell E. H. Fowler, of the Australian Wireless Squadron, died from illness in Mesopotamia on January 22 last. The deceased was formerly a postal assistant at North Sydney. He was attached to the cavalry at the capture of Bagdad.

PRISONERS OF WAR.

Mr. W. T. Jones, of Cronulla, has received a letter from his son, Captain R. Llewellyn Jones, M.C., of the King's Rifles, who is a prisoner of war at Stattingen, Germany, in which he states that one of his knees had been badly injured. He had been under treatment in three different hospitals, and hoped to be well by December. The letter was dated October 14, and took over three months to reach Sydney. His brother, Lieutenant Raymond Jones, has been badly wounded in France, and another brother, who has enlisted at Shanghai, is proceeding to the front.

NEW PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

For some time past the Presbyterian services at Roseville have been held in the local hall, but about May next it is hoped to have ready a new church, which is being built on a conveniently-situated site in Lord-street. Two foundation-stones were laid recently—one by the Rev. John Paterson, Moderator of the New South Wales Assembly, and the other by Mrs. Alex. M'Kinley, wife of the retiring minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Chatswood, the mother church of Roseville. The ceremony was attended by about 200 people, the Rev. A. J. Wade, of North Sydney, presiding, and about £80 was laid on the stones. For some years past contributions have been received towards the cost of the site, which has now been paid for. The cost of the building and the furniture will be about £1300. In recognition of the mission work in the New Hebrides during the past 30 years of Dr. and Mrs. William Gunn, who now reside at Roseville, the natives of these islands have contributed £20 to provide a pulpit in the church.

AUSTRALIAN MACHINERY.

The stress of war has compelled our manufacturers to undertake work which five years ago they would not dream of attempting. The first road roller made in Australia has been manufactured in Victoria by Messrs. A. H. McDonald and Co., of Richmond, from designs of Noyes Bros. (Sydney), Limited. The Lane Cove Council has purchased the implement, and a public trial of it was made on Tuesday on the Greenwich-road. It is a combined road roller and scarifier—when it is not rolling a new road it can be set to cut up an old one, and in the trials it performed both operations. This machine is made of Newcastle steel, and has a two-cylinder, heavy type, moderate speed, four-cycle, low-grade, kerosene engine of 40 brake horse-power to drive it. The total weight of the roller is 10 tons. No trouble was experienced in its trials. It is guaranteed to roll a road with a grade of 1 in 10, but for trial purposes it was given a run on a slope of 1 in 5, and did its job.

VETERAN RAILWAYMAN'S DEATH.

Mr. W. Tweeddale, an old identity of Newtown, has died at his residence in Holmwood-street. He had been employed for the past 40 years in the signalling branch, Sydney yard, of the New South Wales Government Railways. The interment was made in the Church of England portion of the Rookwood Cemetery. The Rev. R. O. Todd officiated at the graveside.

PRIVILEGES FOR SOLDIER LADS.

"Father of Two Returned Boys," referring to the fact that returned soldiers were allowed votes irrespective of their ages at the recent conscription referendum, suggests that the Federal Parliament pass an Act granting to soldier lads who have seen 12 months' service all the privileges and powers enjoyed by men of the age of 21 years.

SYDNEY SCHOOL OF ARTS.

In the eighty-fifth annual report of the committee of the Sydney Mechanics' School of Arts, which will be presented to the annual meeting on Monday next, it is stated that, owing to the dislocation of traffic caused by the recent strike, a number of evening class students had to discontinue. This, together with the amount of £283 spent in renovations, caused a debit balance of £77 16s 9d, the earnings amounting to £4381 11s 1d, against an expenditure of £4395 7s 10d. An increase of membership is reported of 94, there now being 2219 names on the roll. The committee regrets that the debating club connected with the institution has ceased to hold its meetings, these having been suspended by the committee owing to the non-compliance of the club with a request that all subjects for debate be first submitted to the committee. The hope is expressed that the club will be re-established on its former pedestal of distinction and usefulness.

FINANCIAL.

TRADE REORGANISATION.

MINISTRY OF COMMERCE.

The Prime Minister in his second re-organisation speech, delivered before the Chamber of Manufactures in Melbourne on Tuesday evening, carried his scheme one step further. He said that a conference has been called of representatives of the bodies interested, after which the necessary preliminaries will be immediately entered upon. But Mr. Hughes was careful to add that, though the Cabinet had approved no scheme of reconstruction would be foisted upon producers or traders if they did not desire it. At the same time, the Prime Minister pointed out what Germany was doing, and we have first hand information that he scarcely covered a fraction of the ground. German activities in the direction of organisation excel all previous efforts. It is interesting to note that the same issue that contained Mr. Hughes's speech also contained a report by the New South Wales Trade Commissioner in the East to the State Premier, in which he said that co-operative effort was essential if our trade with these parts was to be a success. Dr. Morrison recently told us how much trade there was to be done if only the proper steps were taken.

SYDNEY BANK CLEARINGS.

The clearings of the Sydney banks for the week ended February 11 totalled £11,235,946, against £11,148,031 during the corresponding week last year. The following comparison may be made of the totals to nearest dates of the years enumerated:—

|---|---|
| Jan. 1 to Feb. 16, 1913 | £48,203,878 |
| Jan. 1 to Feb. 16, 1914 | 50,486,784 |
| Jan. 1 to Feb. 15, 1915 | 40,916,262 |
| Jan. 1 to Feb. 14, 1916 | 48,517,050 |
| Jan. 1 to Feb. 12, 1917 | 51,334,843 |
| Jan. 1 to Feb. 11, 1918 | 59,957,468 |

There has thus been an increase up to date this year of £8,622,625.

The clearings of the Melbourne banks from January 1 to February 11 totalled £48,631,835, an increase of £6,816,453.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

In view of the prospective Commonwealth war loan, it is interesting to note that the Canadian Victory loan had 807,361 individual subscribers, or one to every 10 of the population.

Shareholders of the Industrial Permanent B.B. and I. Society met yesterday, Mr. Reus presiding. The report and balance-sheet were adopted, and Dr. Storie Dixson was re-elected a director, and Mr. W. T. Morris as auditor.

Edwards and Co., Ltd., increased its capital from £30,000 to £50,000 by the creation of 20,000 new shares of £1 each.

Our Newcastle correspondent telegraphs:—The half-yearly meeting of the Newcastle Gas and Coke Company was held on Wednesday, Mr. Edward Merewether occupying the chair, in the absence, through illness of the chairman, Mr. John R. Hall, M.L.C. The report and balance-sheet were unanimously adopted, and Mr. Merewether was re-elected a director.

"Coogee:" 6 per cent. on the amount owing when the bill of sale matured. If the loan was by way of promissory note without security the moratorium does not apply.

"A.R.A.:" (1) No. (2) Yes.

PROHIBITED EXPORTS.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

The Collector of Customs advises that until further notice permits will not be issued for the exportation of butter or cheese other than to the Imperial or Indian Governments. The order applies to exports to any destination; but in order that any possible hardship which may result from the operation of the embargo may be considered, all existing contracts in respect of butter or cheese should be communicated to the Chief Prices Commissioner, Melbourne, on or before 4.30 p.m. on Friday, February 15, 1918.

BILLS OF LADING.

IMPORTERS' TROUBLES.

Mr. H. C. Macfie, secretary of the Importers' Association of New South Wales, writes:—Whether New South Wales is singularly unfortunate in the treatment that the commercial community is receiving at the hands of the shipping companies, or whether the port and those associated with the work of the wharfs are particularly and pre-eminently a dishonest body, it is impossible to say. The fact remains, however, that merchants are almost daily discovering that the bill of lading does not represent good security for the merchandise that is being shipped thereunder. It may be in one instance that the value of the contents of a case is slightly over £100, and that this particular case cannot be found. The owner of the bill of lading, confident in the belief that the receipt he holds gives him some rights, presents a claim to the shipping company or its agents, and is met with the statement that, in view of the fact that the case contained more than £100 in value, there is no responsibility for its loss, theft, or disappearance, and that the possession of the bill of lading gives him no right. It may be, again, that a case cannot be found, and the shipping company, on presentation of the bill of lading, refuses to recognise any liability, because, according to its books, made up by its own employees, the case has been put over the ship's slings and on to the wharf, and the contention is that responsibility ceases at the ship's slings."

Again, the owner of the bill of lading is informed that no liability exists, and he is asked to search diligently the many clauses of his bill of lading to discover one or the other exemption under which this disclaimer is made.

Many a trader is in the position that he cannot afford an expensive law suit to contest the rights that he believes he is justly entitled to, more particularly when he is met with the almost unlimited command of capital at the disposal of the shipping ring, who combine together to employ solicitors and counsel for the maintenance of the many exemptions that they claim under their bills of lading.

As things stand to-day in the port of Sydney there is nothing to prevent, according to the interpretation of the shipping agents, any unauthorised person, carter, or professional thief, from removing from the wharf the bill of lading owner's goods without casting any responsibility upon the shipping agents or the shipping company for the loss arising therefrom.

There is a clause in the bill of lading that enables the ship's agent to collect a charge for action, subsequent to the unloading of the goods, for the sorting and stacking of the cargo. The agents, moreover, have delivery clerks at the wharf, who more or less perfunctorily carry out their duties of getting signatures for the delivery of goods, but it would appear from the experience of many merchants that these duties are carried out in such a way that unauthorised persons can take goods without the signature of the licensed carter, or take six cases and sign for five, or take cases of the wrong mark and sign for other marks than those which they take delivery of; and all this, apparently, according to the interpretation of their responsibilities, the shipowners and their agents say is the risk of the man to whom they have given a receipt that they have received in good order and condition certain valuable merchandise.

It is now becoming a burning question in the commercial world—"To what extent further the disabilities associated with the importation of goods are to be borne without any redress in respect to the iniquities associated with the existing bill of lading?"

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

Little business was done in chemicals yesterday. There was no relaxation in any prices. Arsenic sold up to £90 for best white. Strychnine had sales at 10/; phosphorus was quoted at 6/6. Caustic soda continued irregular and above the British and American markets. For 76/77 per cent. £90 was asked, but buyers were few, and would not give the price. All the acids were firm. Tartaric was quoted on spot at 3/3, and sellers were not anxious to let go at that figure. A cable from London quoted Italian at 3/5½ c.i.f.c., and no English offering. Cream of tartar could not be obtained under 3/6, and this was below the parity of the English quotation. Citric acid was worth 3/11. Italian sulphur was still obtainable, though in small quantities. For it £30 was asked. Chilian powdered was quoted at £28. Borax had sales at £75, and boracic at £135. Carbonate of soda and soda ash were quoted at the proclaimed prices, but there was practically no business in these lines, as those prices left no margin of profit. Carbonate of ammonia was worth 1/4. Stocks are not heavy, and where future supplies will come from is difficult to discover. The commodity cannot now be brought from England in tins, and to bring it any other way means that when it arrives here it is oxidised. Rosin was weak. The speculative buyers had placed their holdings on the market concurrent with the arrival of a few unexpected shipments. Quotations for G were down to £23.

Samples of Ceylon tea to hand by a steamer recently arrived showed dear costs for common teas, but still three to four cents a pound lower than prices obtained at the Colombo sale on Tuesday. The better grades, however, showed attractive quality, and were considered to be worth the higher rate given for them. Colombo cables showed the market had advanced for good grades two to three cents, compared with the sale on February 5, with other kinds firm and showing a rising tendency. The cables also showed that the steamer previously advised for this month was not expected till a week later than first advices indicated. Blenders were devoting some attention to Indians yesterday, probably because of the high rates ruling for Ceylons, as up to 1/ a pound the Indians were held to show better value. A few importers have withdrawn orders from Colombo on account of the high rate ruling there.

The jute market was again quiet. A few lines of woolpacks were sold at 5/4½ for spot lots. For April-May-June shipment 5/, plus war risk, was the lowest quotation. Branbags were still obtainable ex the wharf in parcels at 9/3. For small lots 9/4 was asked. Cornsacks were lifeless at the proclaimed price of 9/6.

MELBOURNE CATTLE SALES.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

In the Live Stock Market to-day 1500 fat cattle were yarded, comprised of 1090 bullocks and 410 cows, including 140 from New South Wales. The quality of the yarding of bullocks was about on a par with last week's, whilst cows showed a decided falling-off. There was a good attendance of buyers, and the market was extra brisk for bullocks at a further decided advance on last week's increased values, whilst for cows the demand was also strong throughout at higher rates in both sections. However, there was some slight irregularity in values towards the close. Quotations:—Best pens of bullocks, £23 to £26, extra to £27/15/, odd lots to £29/17/6; good pens of bullocks, £20/10/ to £22/12/6; good light and handy weights, £17/10/ to £20; second and inferior to £17; best cows, £16/7/6 to £18/7/6, extra to £20/7/6; good cows, £13/5/ to £15/15/; seconds, £10 to £13; inferior cows from £7. Calves: 900 were penned, a very moderate proportion of which were of trade quality. For prime sorts the late high rates were barely maintained, whilst other classes showed a marked reduction in values.

BROKEN HILL SOUTH.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

Although the Broken Hill South mine was idle for 11 weeks during the six months ended December 31, owing to the extension of the Sydney strike to the Barrier, the company made a net profit of £169,067, as against £248,234, for the previous period, and was able to pay the usual dividend of 6/ per share, absorbing altogether £120,000. The liquid assets, which amount to £790,245, include metals unrealised, concentrates on hand, and leady concentrates, suspense account £221,566, as compared with £265,772 for the previous period, Commonwealth War Loan, £114,563 (an increase of £25,000), supplies and stores on hand £163,002 (an increase of £24,513), and cash £54,914, as against £43,421. An announcement of great interest to shareholders, not only in the Broken Hill South Company, but in other metal mining companies, is that, after careful investigation, the staff considers it doubtful whether the company will be called upon to pay anything under the War-time Profits Act. However, the sum of £27,500 remains to the credit of taxation account. Development work has kept pace with extraction, so that the general manager's estimate of ore reserves remains at 3,500,000 tons.

Broken Hill South return for six weeks ended February 9:—Crude ore treated, 27,280 tons, assay, lead 15.1 per cent., silver 7.5oz., zinc 14.7 per cent.; concentrates, 5156 tons, assay, lead 65 per cent., silver 26oz., zinc 7.6 per cent.; lead concentrates, 4567 tons, assay, lead 66 per cent., silver 23.1oz., zinc 7.7 per cent.; slimes flotation (lead sec.), 589 tons, assay, lead 58.6 per cent., silver 48.9oz., zinc 8.1 per cent.

Owing to rain, the Richmond pony races were postponed yesterday until Friday, when special trains will leave Sydney at 9.25 (horses), 10.15, and 11.25.

Mr. G. Morrow's four-year-old chestnut mare, Faperine—Murillo (imp.), Moss Rose sustained internal injuries at the start of the Opening Handicap of the Goulburn Racing Club's February meeting, and died in the stables the same evening.

"Inquirer" (Redfern).—Our Goulburn correspondent replies that Young Thespian did not start in the Borough Handicap.

Acceptances are due to-day for the Warwick Farm Racing Club's meeting on Saturday, and also for the Rosebery Racing Club's pony and galloway meeting on Saturday.

The Southern District Trotting Club has received 80 entries for its meeting on the Junee racecourse next Wednesday, including some well-known performers on the metropolitan tracks.

No indication is obtainable regarding the popular fancy in Melbourne for the forthcoming big events; but locally there are suggestions that the horses thought most of for the Oakleigh Plate are Panacre, Poitrina, Remmon, King's Bounty, St. Ibes, Headwind, and Princess Winifred. The Newmarket candidates to receive attention are Petracia, Hopric, Whitefield, Que Sera, and Remmon; and for the Australian Cup Chrome, Red Pennant, Ulva's Isle, Cetigne, Lingle, Ciaro, Wallace Isinglass, Prince Bardolph, and Green Cap.

Entries for the Wyong Park race meeting next Wednesday will close with Mr. E. Woodbury to-day, at 4 o'clock; and up to that hour he will also accept nominations for the Tamworth Jockey Club's meeting on February 26 and 27.

Acceptances are due to-day for the Victoria Amateur Turf Club's minor events.

Our Melbourne correspondent telegraphs that Delinacre, 8st, is included amongst the first acceptors for the Newmarket Handicap.

The Western District Racing Association's two days' meeting will commence on the Orange racecourse tomorrow, and for that day 122 horses have been handicapped. The bay mare Shiela Fat, by Fortunatus (imp.)—Canister, is burdened with 10st 5lb in the Nyngan Handicap, and 11st 5lb in the Geurie Handicap. ### VICTORIAN TRAINING NOTES.

FLEMINGTON.

DESERT GOLD'S GOOD GALLOP.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

At Flemington yesterday morning the star performance was that of Desert Gold (W. H. M'Lachlan), who, making use of the course for the first time, and with the wind against her for fully half of the way, did not seem in the least troubled while running six furlongs in the excellent time of 1m 17s. Another visitor, the vastly improved in appearance Pah King, also pleased by running five furlongs on the course comfortably in 1m 6s. Liquid Fire beat Fleurant by some distance over the same ground in 1m 5¼s. Lingle (S. Meckings) had the advantage over Wallace Isinglass (C. Harden) throughout a gallop of a mile on the course in 1m 49½s. Another Australian Cup candidate, Red Pennant, strode over the same ground in 1m 5½s, and this great big gelding covers a tremendous distance in his stride. Thrice (J. Killorn) went nicely with Dench in a gallop of a mile on the tan in 1m 51½s. Downing Street did the last five furlongs of his work on the tan in 1m 14s; Burnley ran the last six of eight furlongs in 1m 28s. Cielo and Cape Saye (J. Killorn) beat Bon Vue by some distance in a spurt of half a mile in 52½s. A smart bit of work as they were going against the wind; so was Blue Bolt (J. Killorn), who ran a furlong further in 1m 7s. Kuiiga and Sea Bound were 1m 12s going five furlongs; while Trillion strode over six furlongs in 1m 2[illegible]s on the tan; where Headwind was also going at his ease for half a mile in 55½s. Quillion (J. Killorn) spurted over half a mile in 52½s, and Rosanna went strongly. Pretty Bobby (D. M'Coll) again went well for nine furlongs in 2m 2¼s; Pierian was inside of even time for five furlongs; King's Treasure (L. Franklin) and Royal Reserve (D. M'Coll) were well matched for half a mile on the course in 51¼s. Uska was going comfortably for six furlongs on the tan in 1m 2[illegible]s; and Lillian Blankney spurted half a mile on the tan in 54s; while Dunwal (F. Harmer) did a furlong less in 41s. The Broke, Glittering Gold, and King Nerrin ran five furlongs against the wind in 1m 9s; and Captain Standish cut a trifle off that time while beating Sweet Innocence by several lengths over the same ground. Moorang strode along; Sir Dighton beat Princess Winifred over six furlongs on the course in 1m 22s; Vocal King (R. Horne), and Bungunna (W. G. M'Lean) did a working gallop of a mile in 1m 55s; and Eusebius was going easily alongside of Sword Stroke for five furlongs in 1m 8¼s. Tragic Star (S. Murphy) went six furlongs on the tan in 1m 23s; but he only had the pace on for the last three furlongs, which occupied 38½s. Weleria (Payne) also went well, as she spurted half a mile in 51s. Bourlang (F. Wright), who has improved no end, since he has been in C. Quinn's stable, was too smart for Fitness (T. Burn) over half a mile on the course in 50¼s. Bob Royal went strongly on the tan; The Aisne and Calbye both went strongly, and Otterndorf ran 11 furlongs in 2m 40s. Dalcross (T. Burn), who stays well, but takes a lot of driving along, just beat Broken Glass (F. Wright) in a gallop of a mile and a half on the course in 2m 47½s, the last mile being done in 1m 51¼s. Prince Viridis was going easily for a mile in 1m 51¼s on the course, where Cragrose went strongly for half a mile. Colonel Chutney (F. Dempsey) and Prince Bardolph (E. Kittershank) were easing up in the last furlong of a mile in 1m 50s, and they did the first half mile against the wind in 55½s. Tuessura and Stratus (F. Dempsey) kept on close terms while sprinting half a mile in 51s; Duverney was half a second longer over the same distance, which the stylish looking Democracy covered in 50s. Berry Bank ran nine furlongs on the tan in 2m 4s, and King Kora and Queen Ingoda were together for six furlongs in 1m 21s. Eltham went strongly, and did his last half-mile in 54½s. Springsong strode along, and Red Signal (G. Lambert) ran five furlongs in 1m 8½s. Calero (A. Spark) was going better than Trafunda (S. Devereaux) over that distance of the course in 1m 7s. Irish Sea (P. Robertson), Unifred (F. Elliott), Solemnity (C. O'Reilly), and Sylvan Lass (W. G. M'Lean) jumped four hurdles, and the former pair afterwards went over the obstacles again, and all shaped satisfactorily. Lanius (H. Cairns) and Elsdon were going comfortably for a mile on the tan in 1m 55s, while Shadowland (F. Dempsey) ran the same distance in 1m 49½s. Magpie and King Offa were going comfortably for six furlongs on the tan in 1m 23s, a performance equalled by Night Watch and by Edrington, while Accrington clipped the time by 2s. Coq d' Or was just over even time for a mile, and Chrome strode along freely for a furlong further, the last five furlongs being done in 1m 12s. Escombe (light boy) was going very lazily while running nine furlongs, also on the tan in 2m 10s. Acclamation (Haddon) jumped four fences.

AMUSEMENTS.

CAPTAIN CARMICHAEL'S WELCOME.

The function arranged by the 36th (Riflemen's) Battalion Comforts Fund Committee to be held at the State Conservatorium on Saturday evening, 16th inst., has been postponed until Tuesday evening, 19th inst. Holders of invitations will please note this change.

"THE MERCHANT OF BASSORA."

This original Oriental comic opera, written by Leo Williams, and composed by Hubert Russell, was performed once more at the Repertory Theatre last night, the occasion being a benefit in aid of the family of the late Mr. E. B. Gledhill, senior printer at Victoria Barracks. The entertainment was under the patronage of Brigadier-General G. L. Lee, C.M.G., D.S.O. (Commandant) and officers of District Headquarters, and there was a fair attendance, considering the wet and stormy weather. The cast was practically the same as before, and under the composer's baton a rendering was given which ensured a cordial reception at the hands of the audience.

WAR QUESTIONS.

G.H.—During January official casualty lists were published in the "Herald" as follows:—No. 377, on January 8; Nos. 378 and 379, on January 12; and No. 380, on January 22.

DR. KELLY AND PROTESTANT MINISTERS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—At the meeting of the Evangelical Council of the Churches, held yesterday, the attention of the council was called to a report of the pastoral address of Archbishop Kelly appearing in the "Herald" on Monday last, and it was decided that reply should be made. In his remarks on the question of "mixed marriages" Dr. Kelly refers twice to the clergymen of other denominations than his own as "heretical ministers." If the "pastoral address" circulated amongst Dr. Kelly's flock only, offensive terms applied to other denominations might be left unnoticed; but when publication is broadcast to all the world, objectionable remarks become injurious and challenge reply. The term "heretical," as applied by Dr. Kelly to ministers of religion outside his own communion, is gratuitously offensive, and in its connection seems purposely chosen to discredit and defame. It offends against the canons of Christian gentlemanliness and good taste, and is an infraction of the Saviour's direction—R.C. Bible, Matt. vii., 12, "All things, therefore, whatsoever you would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them." It is quite certain that if the term "heretical" were applied to Dr. Kelly, or any of his clergy, it would move his resentment; and he should remember that even "heretics," as he deems us to be, have, like himself, feelings of self-respect, which ought not to be wantonly hurt.

But the imputation of "heresy," publicly made, may be accepted as a challenge, and, at least, a brief reply should be offered. The test of the alleged "heretical" is the divine revelation the Bible, as Dr. Kelly claims it as the foundation of the teaching authority claimed by himself and his Church. Suppose we take one very prominent doctrine, viz., celibacy of the clergy as an example of how the Roman Catholic and the Protestant clergy stand respectively in biblical testing as to "heresy." The Protestant minister, whether he be a bishop or otherwise classed, claims it as his right, according to scripture, to marry, and he can refer to the R.C. Bible as well as his own version, thus—I. Timothy, iii, 2, "It behoveth, therefore, a bishop to be blameless, the husband of one wife." Similarly in all doctrinal differences, the Protestant minister can show Dr. Kelly (and in the Dr.'s own Bible) a clear foundation for the Protestant belief, and yet the minister standing by the Bible is, in Dr. Kelly's estimation, "an heretical minister."

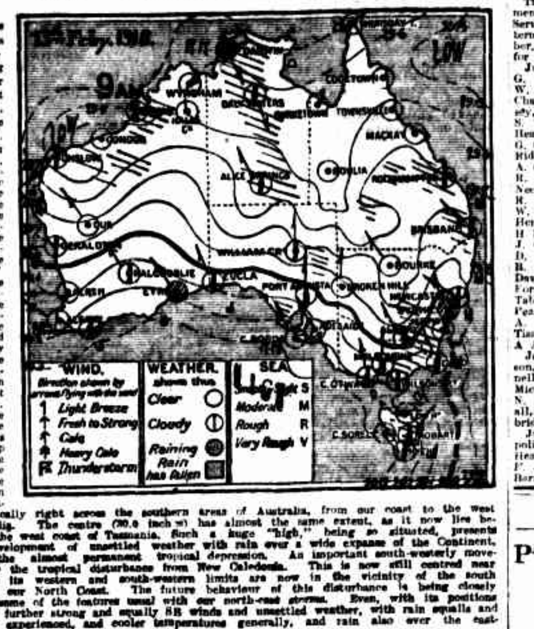

In closing, may it be respectfully suggested that on both sides of the line dividing Roman Catholic and Protestant citizens, there is great need of mutual toleration, and Christian brotherliness. Accidents of birth and environment have much to do with placing us religiously where we must remain. But we can be mutually charitable in word and deed; and whoever loves his Redeemer and his fellow humans will, I am confident, find heaven's door wide open at the end.

I am, etc.,
J. A. WADDELL,
President, Evangelical Council of the Churches, N.S.W.
Feb. 12.

Mr. E. W. R. McMillan, 10 Castlereagh-street, writes, protesting against the despatch of the 5.53 a.m. train for Sydney from Kogarah yesterday without awaiting the arrival of the Sans Souci-Sandringham tram. The latter, he says, arrived between two and three minutes after the time fixed for the departure of the train, but is officially supposed to connect therewith.

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP

The pressure systems depicted on Tuesday's chart over southern Australia have made easting to the extent of another 1000 miles (or at about double the normal rate). Thus, the rear of the "high," which, at 9 a.m. on Tuesday, rested over eastern New South Wales, is now over New Zealand. The Antarctic disturbance is somewhere in the vicinity of the Bluff. It is over the mainland of the Continent, however, that the more interesting and important features are shown, for the "high" which was centred in the Western Bight has extended right across the southern shores and beyond our coast to the South Tasman Sea, and in doing so its southerly winds caused considerable reductions in the temperatures. At 9 a.m. on Wednesday the reading at Wentworth was 20deg. lower than at the same hour on Tuesday. The present distribution is remarkable for the steep gradients denoted by the numerous isobars on the northern side of the "high," this being an indication of strong easterly to SE winds practically right across the southern areas of Australia, from our coast to the west coast of Western Australia. The centre (30.6 inches) has almost the same extent, as it now lies between the Leeuwin and the west coast of Tasmania. Such a huge "high," being so situated, presents possibilities for the development of unsettled weather with rain over a wide expanse of the Continent, as it co-operates with the almost permanent tropical depression. An important south-westerly movement has been made by the tropical disturbance from New Caledonia. This is now still centred near the New Hebrides, but its western and south-western limits are now in the vicinity of the south coast of Queensland and our North Coast. The future behaviour of this disturbance is being closely watched, as it possesses some of the features usual with our north-east storms. Even, with its positions at 9 a.m. on Wednesday, further strong and squally SE winds and unsettled weather, with rain squalls and disturbed sea, should be experienced, and cooler temperatures generally, and rain also over the eastern inland districts.

Ocean Forecast.—Fresh to strong southerlies east from Bonds, and gales on New South Wales coast. No data from NW coast, and wanting from Queensland coast.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

PALING'S PIANOS—FULLY GUARANTEED.

Buy a Piano that will not get out of order after being in use for a few years, or even less.

A poor-toned Piano will mean more worry and expense; it will merely be an ornament in the household, instead of being a source of musical enjoyment.

It always pays to spend a little more and have a Piano in which you have every confidence than to purchase an instrument made more for show than for use.

BUY YOUR PIANO AT PALING'S,

and you will be glad in the years to come. Catalogues Free.

We Sell on Time Payment.

I THOUGHT I'D BOUGHT A GRAMOPHONE, BUT FOUND I'D BOUGHT A VOICE.

Until I realised the pleasure of owning a Vocalion I believed my instrument was a superior type of Gramophone, but now it is more than machine-made music that I can enjoy. I HEAR THE DULCET SWEETNESS OF THE SINGER'S VOICE, with all its power of lifelike fidelity and charm. I OWN A VOCALION.

You, too, can bring this wealth of music into your home circle. Why not call or write for particulars.
